Arms Talks Open

GENEVA (CP) — The 17-nation disarmament conference began its work at a brief session Wednesday with the Western powers holding some hope of an agreement to halt the spread of nuclear weapons outside the atomic club.

American and British officials commended this limited attendance as a step toward the official goal of agreement on verified general disarmament and a nuclear test ban.

But they said it might restrain the atomic arms race and open up possibilities for more difficult disarmament measures later.

FRANCE ABSENT

The delegates from five Eastern bloc, four Western and eight non-aligned countries got the disarmament negotiations rolling again after a two-year lapse. The seat of France is vacant because President de Gaulle has

Test Detector Main Objective Of U.S. at Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy at a press conference yesterday said the U.S. position in the world would be strengthened if it did not have to resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere.

He remarked that in why he especially hopes for agreement on a test-ban treaty with effective safeguards.

At the same time, he said the United States would submit at the Geneva disarmament conference proposals designed to permit a check on preparations for nuclear testing. However, the most significant objective is to establish a system to detect an actual test, he said.

Kennedy read from a letter to State Secretary Rusk in Geneva expressing hope "that you will quickly be able to report agreement on an outline defining the overall shape of a program for general and complete disarmament in a peaceful world."

WIDEST AREA Kennedy also urged Rusk to obtain a definition of the widest area of agreement that can quickly be put into effect. No single measure in the field of disarmament, he said, could alleviate tensions more than a safeguarded nuclear test ban.

He said that the United States would submit at the Geneva disarmament conference proposals designed to permit a check on preparations for nuclear testing. However, the most significant objective is to establish a system to detect an actual test, he said.

Ride In, Drive Away

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP)—A car dealer accepted a horse as a trade-in for a car Wednesday. Albert Dunge, who runs a stable here, got $250 for an eight-year-old horse on the purchase of a 1957 model car for $250.

The auto dealer put the horse on display in his showroom with a price tag of $250.

No Protection

Cominco Arms Guards

TRAIL (CP)—The Canadian Mining and Smelting Co. has mounted armed guards on its industrial and hydro installations because no federal or provincial statute has been invoked to give protection. (See also Page 19.)

Vice-president and general manager Ralph Perry said Wednesday: "The situation seems to be that a corporation is expected to make its own protective arrangements."

FORCE AUGMENTED

As a result, Cominco has placed employees armed with rifles and shotguns in special detachments to guard dams, protecting its transmission lines, power plants and dams.

The company will not announce the strength of guard personnel as it does not want terrorists to know. However, its sizeable security force has been augmented by local men and 25 others from Kimberley.

DEAL ADEQUATELY

Cominco's position is that it does not want to be saddled with the guarding of any installations. It wants the government to deal adequately with the issue of freedom.

"In the meantime," said Mr. Perry, "we are forced to take costly precautions to try and keep our industry intact—and that means to keep men employed."

"When we are satisfied that the lives and livelihood of our employees are no longer endangered by terrorists, we shall be only too happy to withdraw our guards."

Fabulous Howe Hits 500-Goal Milestone

NEW YORK—Detroit Red Wings' fabulous Gordie Howe scored his 500th National Hockey League goal here last night, to become the second man in the history of the league to pass the milestone.

Howe's goal was scored as New York Rangers beat Detroit 3-2. See picture, story on Page 12.

Bid for China Trade

U.S. Firm Asks Right To Ship Wheat to Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said Wednesday a Seattle trading firm has applied for the right to export U.S. surplus wheat to Communist China, but there is no indication China has asked for the grain.

The request was submitted to the U.S. commerce department by two companies including the International Trading Corporation of Seattle. They asked license to export from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 worth of surplus American grain this year, sources said.

At Seattle, Robert N. Nelson, vice-president of International Trading, said the company had

The director, E. G. B. Stevens, said provision must be made for a special unit to give adequate treatment to emotionally disturbed prisoners at Oakalla.

Need Segregation

Oakalla warden Hugh Christie said the institution has never had a higher number of seriously ill drug-addicted patients and he stressed the need for segregation facilities in the prison hospital.

The report was tabled in the legislature by Attorney-General Bonner.

"We have never had a higher number of seriously ill drug-addicted patients," he said.

'Politics' Charge Draws Tears Sets Off Battle

Chairman Helpless House in Uproar

By PETER BRUTON

A woman MLA was reduced to tears last night after a government member accused her of "playing politics with human misery."

Veteran MLA Arthur Turner (NDP-CCF—Vancouver East) described the bitter shouting match which followed as "one of the worst displays I have seen in 21 years in this House."

The flareup was sparked by Mrs. Camille Mather (NDP-CCF—Delta) who told Education Minister Leslie Peterson that conditions at Jericho School for the Deaf are a disgrace, and he should be ashamed.

This promptly brought the charge from Dan Campbell (SC—Comox) that Mrs. Mather was playing politics with human suffering.

She quietly wept in her seat as the fight flared up between the opposition and government benches.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault charged that it was the most unchivalrous thing he had heard in the legislature.

He was shouted down by Premier Bennett and government MLAs.

Opposition leader Robert Strachan said it was just further proof that the present government is in a state of fear and trembling.

But Education Minister Peterson said that the charges had been made and because they were untrue had to be answered. It did not matter, he said, whether the member was a woman or not.

Chairman Alex Mather (SC—Vancouver Centre) gavelled for order time and time again.

After Mrs. Mather had expressed criticism of the old buildings at Jericho school, the minister replied that although he agreed there should be some new building, a lot of the criticisms had been exaggerated.

Physical facilities weren't everything, he said, pointing to the old British schools of Elm and Harrow.

He wanted to assure parents of deaf children that everything possible was done to provide for their safety and comfort.

After Mr. Peterson had finished Mrs. Mather said she was dismayed and shocked that he had tried to put across the impression that the school was made up of graceful old buildings.

"We do care," she said. "This had to Mr. Campbell's remark about playing politics. When Mr. Perrault hit out at the member he ran headlong into a furious Premier Bennett."

"Sit down," ordered Mr. Perrault. "I'll not take orders from the Liberal party," snapped the premier.

"Order, order," shouted everyone at once.

"Please stop these interruptions, will you?" pleaded Mr. Mather, who himself appeared close to tears.

"We don't deserve this type of treatment from the government," said Mr. Perrault. "Just playing politics, just playing politics," answered the premier.

Shouted Down

"You don't care about the children..." "We do care," he shouted Premier Bennett.

Mr. Peterson, once again jumping into the debate, said the government was well aware of the conditions at the school and was well aware of the need to improve them.

Opposition leader Robert Strachan said he very much regretted the attack on Mrs. Mather and said it showed up the government's weakness.

"The government's reaction to these statements exposes it as a group which lives in fear and trembling," he said.

"Now grin like a Cheshire cat," answered Herbert Bruch (SC—Esquimalt). "You're trying to make politics out of human misery."

"Please... please... let's have some order," appealed Chairman Mather.

'Can't Be Excused'

Arthur Turner, senior MLA in the House, said the display was one of the worst he had seen in his 21 years in the legislature.

"It can't be excused from any point of view," he said.

Mrs. Mather, whose original criticisms had started the row, said she would like some assurance that steps would be taken to implement plans for adding the deaf children and said there should be proper dining rooms, play facilities and proper recreation areas.

Final word in the furious debate came from Agriculture Minister Frank Richter who said he hoped he wouldn't become sectional.

"I am closer to Jericho school than anyone," said the widely-respected minister. "My son has been there for the past three years."

"The facilities for children are very good," he said. "They are as good as my home... and I don't think my home is a bad place. There is a good dining room, good facilities and good dormitories."

"And I would just like to say that unless one is going to visit all the buildings he can't get a proper idea of what they're like. There are some old ones but just because there are you can't condemn them all."

Nine-Storey Block Overrides Planners' Howls

A planning group's wholesale opposition to construction of a nine-storey high-rise apartment building on Douglas Street, opposite Thunderbird Park, was ignored last night by city zoning committee.

Council's advisory planning commission registered a strongly worded opposition to a Calgary firm's plans to build a $1,000,000 building on land stretching between Douglas and Blanshard streets.

But on the motion of Ald. Michael Griffin, the zoning committee rejected the planning commission's report.

ZONED FOR MIX

"This area is zoned for six storeys now," he said.

"I would like to see us noted for co-operating with these fellows if they are going to dump their money in here, and bend a rule if necessary."

Ald. Griffin moved that the company be given permission to build a nine-storey apartment on the land, subject to adequate space being allowed between the building and the boundaries of the property.

SENT TO COUNCIL

The committee's recommendation will be sent to next week's meeting of city council.

Main objections by the planning commission were that the property is too small for the size of building proposed, but that a loophole in the city's high-rise bylaw made it temporarily legal for the building to be erected.

The planning commission warned that amendments to the high-rise bylaw will soon be passed by council, prohibiting similar buildings in similar locations.

Decision as to whether Victoria University will become a separate institution free from the University of B.C. will be postponed until new UBC President John Barfoot McDonald takes over later this year.

WONT BE SOLVED Education Minister Leslie Peterson told the legislature last night that the problem of Victoria University's relationship to UBC would not be solved for some time.

NO AGREEMENT "We had a joint committee studying the question but they could not reach agreement," said the minister. "We have now decided to wait until the new president takes over before we do anything further on the matter."

Dr. McDonald will take over the presidency from Dr. Norman McKenzie in a few months time.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

There are many boring subjects in the world. Discussions of children and grandchildren, illustrated with photographs from the wallet, are worth a yawn—even early in the morning.

Stories of strange coincidences, arguments over dates in history—these are wonderful sleep-making materials, too. Better than any pill you can buy in the drug store.

But the dullest subject of them all, by a wide margin, is the choice of a national flag. For the yawn that satisfies—for sheer, fossil-twisting ennui—the flag question has no rivals.

In front of me I have an attractive design for a Canadian flag, sent by some earnest denizen of Nanaimo. The flag contains a maple leaf and 10 bars, and it comes in four delicious varieties, red and gold, red and white, blue and gold, green and white.

I think one is for breakfast, the second for lunch, the third for dinner and the fourth for a midnight snack.

Pleasant Hobby

Yes, it's a pretty thing—just as pretty as the other 500,443 Canadian flag designs that have passed briefly through my hands on the way to the Great Filing Cabinet.

Enormous energy has been spent by thousands of talented people in the production of new Canadian flags. I won't say this energy has been wasted. Flag-designing is a pleasant hobby. Keeps them off the streets.

It is also useful for character reading—almost as good as ink-blot or handwriting analysis.

All of us are in the habit of dignifying our little fears and grudges with great shiny labels like Patriotism and Self-determination, and so on.

When we say that Canada should keep the grand old Union Jack or Red Ensign, we really mean that we are fond of our fathers and mothers, who happen to be English.

Revenge on Sahib

When we say that Canada should be free of British domination, we are lashing back at some pompous old sahib of an English school teacher who gave us a beating.

Most nations manage to agree upon some kind of national symbol upon which to focus all the personal feelings that we twist into the shape of patriotism.

In Canada we can't agree what the symbol ought to be. This is because we came late to nationhood—or because we never came to nationhood at all.

Why be unhappy about that? With any luck, our various loyalties may cancel one another out, and leave nothing but loyalty to mankind.

There is no need to choose one among all these marvelous designs for a Canadian flag. Choose all of them and send a call to the designers for more—until we have a separate flag for every man, woman and child in the country.

Insomnia Incidental If You're Unhappy

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Doctor: I keep house for my two brothers and my two sisters. The latter have heart trouble, but are still able to work. They get all the sympathy because they are tired. I have had chronic insomnia since I was 16 and it gets worse with age.

I sleep only two or three hours a night and sometimes not at all. It's continual fatigue unless I take a nap after lunch. Then I have relief for the afternoon. Doctors and psychiatrists have given me up. I guess I am too sensitive—M.A.

There are various known causes of sleeplessness and I will list them, but not necessarily in order of importance:

Mental and emotional disturbances; anxiety. Painful disease states. Abnormal conditions, such as cold, hunger, fever, cough, itching.

TOXIC FACTORS
Toxic factors, such as tobacco, coffee, tea, stimulating drugs, alcohol (sometimes). Disorders of circulation, high blood pressure, heart disease, anemia.

Canada Cashing In On Japanese Trade Declares Consul

Cumulative imbalance in trade between Japan and Canada in the last seven years amounted to more than $500,000,000 in Canada's favor, Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce was told last night.

"Therefore," said Japanese Consul Munee Tanabe, "looking at trade relations between Canada and Japan as a whole, imbalance has consistently been a problem to Japan."

The Japanese government desires to achieve a balanced expansion of trade but has never sought to balance it artificially, he said.

"Instead, she has placed her faith in the principle of multi-lateral free trade and looked for long-term improvements of trade with Canada by progressive increase in her exports."

Trade relations between the two countries are undeniably of mutual benefit, and both countries believe in free trade, he said.

Japan buys from Canada the products she needs on a non-discriminatory basis. It is only natural that Japan expects Canada to give Japanese exports free access to the Canadian market on the same basis. Only on such a basis can trade continue to grow to the satisfaction of both countries, he said.

He said in 1960 Japan embarked on a 10-year program to double her gross national income and as a result, raw material imports from B.C. would increase rapidly.

addicted patients, mentally disturbed patients, patients with homosexual problems and people who generally were unable to cope with normal prison program," said Warden Christie.

EXPOSES ADDICTION
Segregation facilities in the hospital care of foremost importance where these most seriously disturbed inmates are concerned.

"This absence of segregation has exposed to addiction a large number of these mentally and emotionally troubled inmates, who desperately seeking some escape from emotional torment, are most vulnerable," he said.

Senior medical officer Dr. R. G. E. Richmond said Oakalla's kitchen is infested with cockroaches in spite of frequent fumigation and that insulating tiles in the ceiling serve as a breeding ground.

ADDITIONAL SPACE

Mr. Stevens made several recommendations to the attorney-general's department, including one for action to implement plans drawn up some time ago for additional space at the Prince George jail.

Since the report was written, Attorney-General Bonner has told the legislature that funds are being made available in the coming fiscal year to increase the Prince George institution.

Funds also are allocated to improve hospital facilities at Oakalla, where the previous young offenders unit has been converted into a hospital. Staff at Oakalla now is preparing to move into this building.

SENT TO ESSONDALE
Mr. Stevens emphasized the difficulty in handling emotionally-disturbed prisoners, stating that 88 were transferred during the year from Oakalla to the mental hospital at Essondale. This presented a problem for Essondale, because it didn't have means for security.

Some provision would have to be made for a special unit to give adequate treatment to these people.

Mr. Stevens also asked for increased numbers of parole officers to relieve some of the pressure being placed on the parole board by wider use by the courts of parole provisions.

He said adequate chapel facilities are needed to facilitate work of chaplains, which is most important in rehabilitation of people in jails.

OLD ANNEX
The old Oakalla jail, known as Annex A, which was condemned in 1912, should be replaced.

"I feel we cannot justifiably continue to use this section of the jail, which is to say the least, a fire trap," he said.

"It is urgently recommended that sufficient funds be allocated for the construction of new more adequate quarters for this type of inmate (the short-term liquor offender) so that the old jail can be closed once and for all."

judged the proceedings useless. The real bargaining will begin today when a new, three-stage U.S. plan and probably a rival Russian program, are laid before the delegates.

State Secretary Rusk will submit the U.S. proposals, which are fully backed by Britain, Canada and Italy, the other Western delegates, and are based on earlier U.S. plans last Sept. 25 and June, 1960.

CLOSED DOORS
Today's session begins at 10 a.m. and like all the rest will be behind closed doors, with an agreed communiqué issued after each meeting.

The U.S. and Russia were unanimously named permanent co-chairmen of the conference at Wednesday's 32-minute private session in accordance with a plan worked out before the conference by those two countries and Britain—the three major nuclear powers.

In addition, each session will have a different country as chairman. Burma was in the chair Wednesday.

Glenn Bends an Arm Rowdies Blast Off

WASHINGTON—Astronaut John Glenn was cursed and an attempt was made to slug him in an encounter with rowdy teen-agers at the church he attends in Arlington, Va., last Saturday, police reported yesterday.

Glenn easily restrained his assailant and was not injured. The Washington Star says an investigation was demanded by county board members as soon as they heard of the affair, and police are busy on it.

Glenn ordered the youths who were misbehaving outside the church to leave and, after they retorted with derisive remarks, he said he would record the licence number of their car and call police.

A boy jumped in front of the licence plate to obscure it. As Glenn pushed him aside, one of the teen-agers swung at the astronaut, who promptly pinned the boy's arms against the car until other persons came from the church to help.

Glenn then went into the church and called police, but the gang fled before they arrived.

Expedition To Mars By 1982

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—Scientists of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said yesterday it should be possible within 30 years for the United States to rocket a 15-man expedition to Mars.

They would make a round trip of more than 100,000,000 miles during a space expedition that would last more than 1½ years.

Scientists emphasized that there are no firm plans for a U.S. space expedition beyond the expected moon landing in 1968, but that the groundwork is being laid for a Mars mission if the government decides to attempt it.

Parallel to U-2 Situation 'Too Close for Comfort'

LONDON (Reuters)—The British aeronautical magazine Flight accused the United States yesterday of launching secrecy-shrouded satellites and practising "brinkmanship in space."

An editorial on U.S. Air Force space activity claimed that since last October there had been "six major launchings on which basic orbital information has been withheld from world scientists."

"All of them were carrying Samos observation—or spy—or Midas early warning equipment."

The magazine, Journal of the Royal Aero Club, Britain's representative in the International Aeronautics Federation, asserted that "politically the parallel with the U-2 is too close for comfort."

Flake another half-pound of Clover Leaf Salmon onto the onions. Spread with the rest of the onion rings. Season with salt and pepper. Now mix 1 tin of cream of mushroom soup with a little water and pour over the salmon. Bake uncovered in hot oven (400°F.) for about 20 minutes. Just different enough to be special.

LETTERS to the Editor

To be considered for publication in whole or in part letters must be on subjects of general interest, not more than 200 words in length, and, if signed with a pen-name, must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

May I add my voice to the "blind Puritanical beatings" deplored by Mr. J. Bainbridge? (Perhaps this correspondent does not realize that it should be possible for adults to hold, and even express, conflicting opinions without rudeness.)

I did not see the film "Whistle Down the Wind" because I understood from its advance publicity that it had a theme I should find distasteful. Not having seen it, I am ready to concede that its acting may have been superb, its cast sincere, and that its producers made every effort to handle the subject with spirituality and reverence. I can also believe that many who saw it thought themselves uplifted by it.

I still think the film would better not have been made. Whatever its intentions or its artistry, it does appear to suggest some parallel between our Lord and a drunken tramp, and it does appear to suggest His betrayal by His followers.

I submit that these suggestions, which every Christian should find objectionable, and against which it is his plain duty to protest.

AUDREY ALEXANDRA BROWN.

658 Transit Road.

Censorship

MLA David Barrett, you report, said that the $20,000 paid for censoring films in B.C. is a waste of money. He may be right.

Many people think that adults should be allowed to choose for themselves, especially when in other countries, certain films and certain parts of films are shown to the public. Are British Columbians less mature or less able to "take it?"

In Britain films are certified as A (adult) or U (universal) and children under 16 are not admitted to the former. Eighteen would be a better age... If it were practicable, might this not be the best solution?

GROWN-UP.

Now Satisfied

Recently you were kind enough to publish a letter in which I quoted a paragraph from a letter to me from Mr. Donald Fleming in answer to an enquiry with respect to press reports of a federal government commitment to match public subscriptions in support of the Canadian Peace Research Institute's appeal for funds. Mr. Fleming denied knowledge of any such commitment.

I feel it is only fair to the Canadian Peace Research Institute, in view of the publicity given to my letter, to say that I am satisfied, after making enquiries, that no such statement emanated from Dr. Alcock. Further, as to the Institute's objectives and how they proposed to tackle the problem of peace—both economic and political—have been mainly cleared up in my mind upon reading The Bridge of Reason by Dr. Alcock.

MLA Urges:

Cut Work Week To Create Jobs

By JILL ARLITT

Unemployment cannot be solved by industrial expansion but by effectively balancing supply and demand, Randolph Harding, NDP-CCF member for Kootenai-Slocan, told students at Victoria University yesterday in a noon-hour address in the auditorium.

PLANNING NEEDED

Mr. Harding, who was invited to speak by the New Democratic Party Club of the university, said that national and provincial planning, on a wide scale would also be necessary in order to meet the growing problem of unemployment.

BEST BRAINS

"The capitalist system has the best brains in the country," he maintained, "but they cannot solve the problem of unemployment. If they could, they would."

The immediate requirements to solve the problem he summed up as follows:

- A shorter work week.
- Strict limitations on overtime.
- Increased facilities.
- Retraining of workers.
- The setting up of an industrial development fund.

KNEE-DEEP

"The talk of seasonal unemployment has been pushed into the background," he charged, "and it is now being called 'permanent unemployment.'"

At each recession there is a higher rate of unemployment, he said.

Mr. Harding went on to say that we are standing "knee-deep" in industrial resources—and not doing anything about it.

"We haven't been doing the job. And I include myself," he added—"as far as the industrial outlook of the country

Police Chief Loses Bid To Fire Men

A request by the City of Vancouver to have its charter amended to give the police chief power to discharge individual policemen, was rejected Wednesday by the legislature's private bills committee.

The city sought an amendment to the charter after three policemen recently had the courts upset dismissals by the police chief on grounds that the charter gives the authority only to the police commission, not to the chief.

MLA's Method

Easy Way to Millions Just Give Up Smoking

A lecture on how a youngster can become a millionaire by the time he reaches 71 years of age was delivered in the legislature yesterday by Cyril Shefford (SC-Omineca).

His method: "Don't start the smoking habit."

He called upon Education Minister Leslie Peterson to step up the educational program of warning youngsters about the dangers of smoking.

DIRECT LINK

"We should try to stop young people from smoking," he said.

He said the Royal College of Surgeons in Britain had found a direct link between smoking and lung cancer.

Mr. Shefford said Canadians smoke 2,112 cigarettes a year for every man, woman and child, and warned that total is on the increase.

He blamed the increase on B.C. school children.

children who smoke. Adults, he said, are already smoking all they can.

He said one person can smoke $40,000 worth of cigarettes in a lifetime.

HIS METHOD

Here is his method to become a millionaire.

He figures a man, who is not a heavy smoker, will spend 30 cents a day on cigarettes, or $108.50 each year. If he invested that money in yield 10 per cent interest, at the end of 11 years he would be past the $2,000 mark; at 16 years he would be up to the $4,000 mark; at 31 years he would be at the $20,000; at 40 years interest alone would be $5,000 a year; by his 71st birthday interest would be $95,000 and he would discover he was a millionaire.

Mr. Peterson said that the harmful effects of both alcohol and tobacco are explained to B.C. school children.

Move Breaks Old Barriers

Inclusion of West Germany in the European Common Market has great historical importance, Livingston T. Merchant, United States ambassador to Canada, said yesterday.

"It (the ECM) provided a framework within which the Federal Republic of Germany became a genuine member of a family or community of its neighbors—no longer an outcast or a rival," he told a joint luncheon meeting of the Men's and Women's Canadian Clubs in the Empress Hotel.

"And moreover, borrowing what we thought was a lesson from our own history in the United States, we saw it as enabling the Continent—or a large part of it—to develop economically on a continental or semi-continental scale with the lift and the expansion that comes from breaking down state or national tariffs, controls and other barriers."

"The expansion of the production and the consumption of goods within the Common Market in the past four years has been truly phenomenal."

"In fact, the economy of the Community of Six—these six being France, the Federal Republic of Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—has been expanding in the past four years roughly twice as fast as Canada and the United States."

Mr. Merchant said President Kennedy's new trade bill calling for reduced tariffs is the United States' answer to the ECM.

He warned that all Commonwealth countries will have to make their own decisions to meet the "special problems" posed by the ECM.

U.S. Flag Hoisted

As a friendly gesture to visiting United States Ambassador Livingston T. Merchant yesterday, Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes ordered that the U.S. flag fly over the entrance to Government House.

University Way Approved

Renaming of Foul Bay Road to University Way, as suggested by Victoria Chamber of Commerce, was approved in principle yesterday by city public works committee.

The suggestion has been referred to the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee for further discussion.

New Globes Will Defy Vandals

Victoria's 730 cluster lights will be given a money-saving facelift in a 10-year program, city public works committee decided yesterday.

Members approved the purchase of some 350 plastic globes for cluster lights each year, until all are replaced.

Lighting superintendent Kenneth Reid said one-tenth of the 3,500 glass globes are broken each year, some by accident and some by vandalism.

Nest Is Cold

STRASBOURG, France (UPI)—The first streaks of spring returned to their traditional rooftop nests in Alsace this week. They found it was snowing.

Minister Claims:

'Canadian Texts Not Always Best'

Canadian-written textbooks are not necessarily the best for Canadian school students, Education Minister Leslie Peterson said yesterday.

A total of 128, or 50 per cent of textbooks now in use in B.C. schools were written and printed in Canada, he told the legislature. Some 47, or 18.4 per cent were of U.S. origin while 19, or 7.4 per cent were written and published in Great Britain. The remaining 62, or 24.2 per cent, were written and printed in the U.S.

Mr. Peterson was replying to opposition demands that more Canadian textbooks be used in B.C. schools.

"An increasing number of Canadian texts are being used," he said. "But just because they're Canadian does not mean they are free from criticism."

Seamen Starving For Spanish Cook

VANCOUVER (CP) — A marine superintendent is due from London today to decide if 18 striking crew members of the British freighter Banner should be charged under the Canada Shipping Act or returned to their Canary Islands homes.

The strikers have refused to work or eat for six days to support demands for a Spanish cook instead of a British one.

The 10,000-ton vessel, which carries a complement of 45, is owned by Banner Shipping Co. Ltd. The superintendent will represent the owners.

Two men were carried from the vessel by shipmates Wednesday after apparently collapsing from hunger. Hospital authorities said later one man had influenza.

F. P. Bernard, vice-consul for Spain and representative of the Seafarers' International Union boarded the ship and said they could find no valid cause for the strike.

The vessel, a converted tanker, is loading grain for Communist China. The ringleader stayed away from the ship on the Black Sea last October.

He fled from a Russian ship and was signed on as a deckhand instead of being turned over to the Russian authorities.

Operation Widened

Three 'All-Sookes' Planned for May

Three miniature All-Sooke, days are scheduled for the month of May.

Sooke Community Association, which sponsors the annual celebration and logging sports to be held this year July 21, is continuing to expand its operations in the convention field.

Three groups of 500 delegates and their wives attending conventions in Victoria in May will travel by bus to the fairgrounds on Sooke River flats.

There they will watch logging sports events, partake of the famed barbecued salmon and Sooke clam chowder, and wind up the proceedings with a dance in the community hall.

DRAWING POWER
Community association president Bob Walters said last night it will continue to seek convention business both as a money-making venture and as a means of publicizing the district.

He said to meet convention visitors from other parts of Canada and the U.S. the logging sports in particular are a novelty that has a great drawing power.

Bertha Cox Funeral Saturday

Resident of Victoria for the last 48 years, Mrs. Bertha Cox, wife of William H. Cox, 187 Joseph, died suddenly yesterday at the family home.

Mrs. Cox was a native of England who married into one of Victoria's oldest families.

Surviving, besides her husband, are three daughters: Mrs. Fred Bourne and Mrs. Jack Cummings of Victoria and Mrs. Harry Sandwith of Clearbrook B.C., and four grandchildren.

Rev. Douglas Kendall will conduct funeral services at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Haywards, with burial in the family plot in Ross Bay cemetery.

Students Admit Ship Damage

Four Victoria University football players were fined $25 and $3 costs each by Magistrate A. I. Thomas yesterday for an outburst aboard M.V. Sidney on their way home from a game in Vancouver Feb. 17.

Found guilty of an offence against the Ferries Act, a provincial statute, were Michael Stephen, 20, of 802 Newport;

Robert Turner, 18, of 933 Foul Bay Road; Michael Bassett, 21, of 3040 Beach Drive; and Benjamin Percival Sills, 20, of 627 Hood Lane.

Crown counsel G. A. Neely demanded the maximum penalty of $100, but the magistrate said he would impose a smaller penalty because the students had already been punished by university authorities. (They have been barred from sports and club activities for the season.)

Entering a plea of guilty, W. M. M. Haldane, defence counsel for Sills, and J. Alan Baker, counsel for the other three, admitted the students had removed the following things from their places in the ferry:

BRONZE PLAQUE
A lifebelt, a lifejacket, a "no admittance" sign and a bronze shipbuilders' plaque listing the ship's name and measurements.

More serious charges of theft under the value of $50—Criminal Code charges—were laid a week ago against two of the students—Bassett and Stephen—on the grounds they had taken a sign and a plaque away.

Sills and Turner were charged with wilful damage. Yesterday all four charges were withdrawn and charges of "interfering" with appliances aboard a ferry were substituted.

Crown counsel Neely told reporters: "This is considered a more appropriate charge than a charge under the Criminal Code, which leaves an indelible mark on their lives."

Defence counsel J. Alan Baker called the incident "misplaced exuberance on the part of these young men returning from a college football game in Vancouver."

"It might be of some assistance to know what punishment the college authorities have imposed upon these students," Mr. Baker said.

ONE EXCEPTION
"All... have been punished by students' council... all privileges withdrawn... no athletics for the rest of the year. No part in the activities of college societies, except Michael Stephen, who is taking a leading part in a college play."

Stephen would be allowed to stay in the play.

"These privileges won't be automatically restored next year. The students must apply to the students' council and the faculty to have them restored."

PREFER TO PAY
Mr. Baker said Stephen would prefer to pay the fine from his own earnings, and requested time to pay. The magistrate agreed.

"I'd like to see the entire four of them pay out of their own earnings," Mr. Thomas said.

"Three of them could pay back their fathers," said Mr. Baker.

Notice Filed

Treaty Thwarted Says B.C. Power

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Power Corporation filed notice of application Wednesday for permission to amend its statement of claim in its suit against the government over expropriation of the B.C. Electric.

The application, to be heard in Supreme Court chambers Friday, says that the B.C. government took over the power utility to thwart the intent of the international treaty for the Columbia river power project.

The notice says the B.C. Electric was expropriated so it could be used to develop the Peace River. The effect was to enable the government to refuse the return of downstream benefit power from the Columbia and force the sale in the U.S. contrary to the terms of the treaty.

"The declared policy of the government of B.C. and the passing of the act to take over (BCE) show that the act is part of a general scheme inimical to the carrying out of the treaty," said the application.

B.C. Power seeks a Supreme Court ruling that the expropriation was beyond the powers of the provincial government or, if the takeover is ruled valid, that the compensation paid for BCE River. The effect was to enable OTTAWA (CP)—Reliable sources said Wednesday that nine Canadians—seven military and two civilian personnel—were caught smuggling opium or gold within Indochina and had been brought home.

He also said there had been "similar difficulties" in 1956 when a Liberal government was in office—the first public indication that Canadians had been involved in smuggling before 1961.

OTHERS INVOLVED?

Mr. Diefenbaker said an investigation into the affair is continuing.

Informants said this may be an indication that others are involved in the smuggling.

The two civilians involved were male clerks in the external affairs department and they have been suspended.

H. W. Herridge, parliamentary leader of the CCF - New Democratic Party group, said in an interview outside the Commons that the two clerks were "hustled off home very quickly" before local officials could deal with the case.

DEALT WITH

Other informed sources said Canadian soldiers caught smuggling in Indochina late last year and already dealt with on the spot by their commanding officers cannot be court-martialed in Canada on the same charge.

They said the Canadian army officer involved in the case was discovered smuggling gold and had been summarily convicted by his commanding officer.

RETAINS COMMISSION

This officer, according to military law, cannot be tried by court martial on the same offence and will retain his commission in the army, the source said.

However, if this officer had also smuggled opium and this could be proved he could be tried by court martial for a different offence.

Police Union
President Suspended

MONTREAL (CP)—Sgt. Roch Lessard, a high-ranking officer and president of the police union in nearby Lafleche, has been suspended "indefinitely" from the force, it was learned yesterday.

Last month the tiny community dismissed two senior policemen and hired a private detective agency to handle their police duties. No reason was given for the suspension of Sgt. Lessard.

MP Wants Start Now On Oil Sands Scheme

EDMONTON—(CP)—Mike Maccagno (L—Lac la Biche) Wednesday suggested that the provincial government allow an immediate start on the production of oil from the Athabasca oil sands in northeastern Alberta.

He told the Alberta legislature that the rising demand for oil should make it possible to develop the oil reserves in the Athabasca sands at least on a limited scale.

"Surely, with the present demands increasing each year, it ought to be possible to secure a small part of the available market, say just five per cent, just to prove that development of the oil sands can be done," he urged.

Kelly Seeks MP Seat For Toronto York West

TOBENTON (UPI)—Maple Leaf hockey star Red Kelly has agreed to stand for the Liberal nomination in the Toronto riding of York West in the next federal election.

Kelly finally agreed Wednesday after weeks of indecision and personal conversations with national Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson.

His nomination will depend upon the outcome of the hockey "lock-out." Should Toronto make the Stanley Cup final, the nominating convention will not take place until the season is over.

Kelly, who owns a bowling alley in Stouffville, Ont., plans to live in Toronto.

York West, a traditionally Conservative seat, is held by J. B. Hamilton.

Kelly played for Detroit Red Wings for 13 seasons before being traded to Toronto in 1960 after a deal to send him to the New York Rangers fell through.

Rangers Shade Detroit Despite Howe's 500th

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Andy Bathgate's second goal of the evening — on a penalty shot — brought New York Rangers a 3-3 victory over Detroit Red Wings Wednesday night and took some of the edge off the 500th goal of Gordie Howe's National Hockey League career.

The victory of the Rangers a two-point lead over the Red Wings in their scramble for fourth place and the last play-off spot.

In the night's other game, Toronto Maple Leafs, making a frantic end-of-season run for first place, defeated the leading Montreal Canadiens 5-2.

At Madison Square Garden, New York was awarded a penalty shot at 9:03 of the third period when Detroit goalie Hank Bassen threw his stick in stopping a breakthrough by Dean Prentice.

The Rangers dominated Bathgate, the league's leading scorer, to take the shot. He picked up the puck at the blue line, skated in slowly, faked Bassen off his feet and tucked the puck into the corner of the net.

FOUR POINT LEAD
The two goals gave Bathgate 80 points for the season, four up on Chicago Black Hawks' Bobby Hull.

Detroit's Howe became the second man in the history of the NHL to reach the 500-goal mark when he scored late in the second period. Only Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens has scored more. He retired with 544.

WARD WAY
Howe got his 31st of the season the hard way. He was being ridden off by New York player-coach Doug Harvey when he flipped in a 20-foot backhand shot.

The crowd of 15,328 gave the 33-year-old veteran a standing ovation.

Earl Ingarfield tied the game 3-3 only 31 seconds later while Detroit's Claude LaForte was still sitting out a tripping penalty.

Bathgate and LaForte matched first period goals before Howe gave Detroit the short-lived lead.

FIVE POINTS RACK
At Toronto the Leafs, who have only five more games to play before closing out the regular 70-game schedule, drew to within five points of Canadiens who have six more games on their schedule. Leafs are unbeaten in their last nine games.

A crowd of 13,940 saw the 31-year-old Geoffrion scramble into the Toronto net after scoring a second-period goal that made it 3-2.

In the third period, the Leafs' Bobby Paddock drilled into the Montreal nets to retrieve the puck after scoring his 100th goal.

Esquimalt Canadians defeated Vic West Leafs, 5-3, at Esquimalt Municipal Centre last night in the first women's hockey game of the season.

Kathy Grate, Janet Boyd, Alma Smith, Claire Holmes and Karen Green scored for the winners. Mickey Miller got two goals for Leafs with Judy Schoryn getting the other.

IT BEATS ME

HERE WE GO AGAIN: Not in recent memory at least, is there an instance of a Victoria player being selected for the B.C. all-star soccer club, and up until this season, not too much argument could be offered that Mainland selectors were biased.

And they may not prove to be biased this season but the campaign is already unofficially on, started by a Vancouver soccer writer who still stubbornly refuses to grant that Victoria United is not a flash in the pan and seems to feel that Barry Sadler is not really an outstanding goalkeeper.

After watching Vancouver Firefighters defeat Columbia 2-1 on Sunday, he took full advantage of the chance to say what he has long been wanting to put across.

"Any doubts that existed in the minds of B.C. soccer selectors regarding the goalkeeping job for the game against England's Sheffield United next June disappeared with the faint traces of snow at Callister Park on Sunday," he wrote.

"The B.C. goalkeeper will be the sensational, the astounding, the simply brilliant Ken Pears," he added, completely carried away by what was without doubt a very fine performance.

There were other enthusiasms such as "at his incredible heat," and "fantastic" and "Canada's best goalkeeper by a country mile."

That Ken Pears is a fine goalkeeper is fact. That Ken Pears is the right man for the all-star club is probably a fair surmise, for the guy is really good. But this was a biased effort to influence those entrusted with the job of picking the best. There would be no quarrel here with the choice of Pears but the youthful Mr. Sadler does deserve more consideration than this before he is passed over.

And if he is passed over, then there are a few fellows on the United team who can not be left out.

The record shows that United in finishing in third place in the first half of the Coast to Coast schedule, one point behind Firefighters, allowed but nine goals in 12 games as against the 19 let in by Pears. So far in the second half, Sadler has scored his seventh, eighth, ninth and 10th shut-outs in 16 league games while Pears, who looked quite ordinary here last month when United trounced his club, 4-0, has permitted five goals in two games.

If in spite of these figures, Pears is still the "best goalkeeper in Canada by a country mile" then the selectors will have to presume that they have no choice but to include the two Victoria fullbacks and the three Victoria halfbacks on the all-star club. How else can the record be disproved?

FRUSTRATING: Last season Will Chamberlain became the first player in the National Basketball Association to score 3,000 points in one season, but it wasn't enough to make the players' all-star team.

This season, Chamberlain became the first player to score 4,000 points in one season. He set a new league high of 100 points in one game, a truly fabulous performance. Latest available statistics showed him averaging 30.9 points a game — for 77 games — leading the league in rebounds with an average of 25.5 a game and second in field goal percentage, scoring on more than half his shots from the floor.

No player has so dominated any sport offensively, but, for the second year in a row, Chamberlain has failed to make the NBA all-star team, again losing out to Bill Russell, the defensive whiz for Boston Celtics who is averaging 18.5 points a game.

On top of that, Chamberlain was a distant third in the voting for the most valuable player. Russell polled 65 votes, Oscar Robertson got 10 and Chamberlain only nine.

It's true that Chamberlain is not the complete basketball player. He is not nearly the team player that Russell is nor does he rate even close to the Boston centre on defence, and he hasn't got the kind of all-round skills possessed by Elgin Baylor. But Chamberlain is almost a one-man club for Philadelphia Warriors, an outfit which is second in its division only because it has Will Stilt playing an average of 45 minutes out of a possible 48 each and every game. One can only think that opposing players are jealously prejudiced or they find Russell's defending harder to take than Chamberlain's scoring. It's probably a bit of both.

IT'S SO SILLY: Sweden will undoubtedly take home the world amateur hockey championship this year, and it makes about as much sense as the Westchester Chiefs winning the world series after a playoff with the Birmingham Triplets.

"Canada defeated" the headlines broadcast but that is not really a fact. The Galt Terriers were defeated, and the Galt Terriers, it has to be sadly admitted, are not at all representative of Canadian hockey although their sweaters carried the legend — and legend is the right word — "Canada."

Outside of "amateur" Tod Sloan and Nelson, and Johnson, there probably wasn't a player on the ice Tuesday who could cut the mustard in the Western Hockey League.

It gets sillier still to read that Boston Bruins, looking for any reason other than their sorry plight in the NHL, met Swedish goalkeeper Lennart Haggröth on their negotiation last yesterday. That Haggröth, who went to the ice on almost every shot looked so good was due almost solely to the kind of opposition he faced. What Guyle Fielder and Lou Jankowski would have done to Sweden would have been murder. This annual farce gets sillier and sillier.

GUINNING DEPARTMENT: Chicago and Detroit in tonight's NHL games: Betting average to date: At bat 69, hits 33, percentage .673.

San Francisco Third After Long Struggle

San Francisco Seals finally passed Los Angeles Blades and Edmonton Flyers and Portland Buckaroos took big steps towards clinching divisional championships in last night's Western Hockey League play.

Southern Division trailers right from the start of the season the veteran Seals kept up a late-season drive by defeating Vancouver Canucks, 3-2, at San Francisco before 4,091 fans.

Victory put the Seals, who have four games left to five for the Blades, two points ahead of their California rivals.

Flyers and Buckaroos, who have been showing signs of slipping of late, each gave the other a hand last night.

Buckaroos, getting a quick jump, trimmed Calgary Stampede, second-place club in the Northern Division, 6-2. Flyers, led by Len Lunde's three goals, took Spokane Comets, runners-up in the Southern Division, 5-1.

Results left Portland eight points ahead of Spokane with a game in hand and Flyers five points ahead of Calgary.

Attendance at Edmonton was 3,170 fans, at Portland 9,632.

Starr Shakes Fist In Jobless Storm

OTTAWA (CP) — Deputy Speaker Paul Martinson had his hands full restoring order in the Commons Wednesday after Labor Minister Starr erupted in a fist-shaking display when Liberals peppered him with criticism about unemployment.

Paul Martin (L.-Block East) led the attack with charges that the unemployment situation in Canada is the worst of any industrial country in the Western world.

He implied that unemployment figures for February are being withheld because of the cabinet's meeting Wednesday with a Canadian Labor Congress delegation and because supplementary labor estimates are before the Commons.

The labor minister promptly blew up.

COUNTER-CHARGES — The exchange of shouts, charges and counter-charges raged on for more than 10 minutes before the Deputy Speaker was able to calm things down.

Ernest Regier (CCF—Progressive) followed this up by accusing the government of irresponsibility in committing $270,000,000 to construction of new vocational training schools "without ensuring that the public is going to receive some real value for the money."

"FANTASTIC" — The technical school in Burnaby, B.C., had some "ridiculous and fantastic" courses. It had one course in exterior painting, while thousands of painters were unemployed across Canada.

Mr. Regier, a former high school teacher, said what was needed was a massive teacher training program, and a curriculum that would satisfy needs.

Equal Deal On Farms Demanded

OTTAWA (CP) — Seasonal farm workers are being discriminated against because they can't obtain unemployment insurance benefits, says a report by the House of Commons.

He said seasonal workers in fisheries and lumbering are covered by insurance, and urged the Commons to give serious consideration to an equal deal for farm employees.

Mr. Rapp's proposal won vocal support from members of all parties, but it was talked out in the hour allotted to its discussion without a vote being taken.

Can Angus Probe Puntledge?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fishing companies and the fisherman's union yesterday queried the authority of the Angus royal commission to deal with the Puntledge fish-power conflict.

The companies and union argued Ottawa had exclusive rights over management of coastal fisheries. Under the Fisheries Act, they claimed, the owner of a dam may be required to provide and maintain facilities "to permit the free passage of fish."

The companies argued the authority to determine fish measures for the Puntledge rests on the fisheries department, while providing facilities is B.C. Hydro's job.

Hot in Ring

Arnold Webster, 62, a school principal and former B.C. leader of the CCF, was nominated Tuesday as federal candidate for Vancouver Kingsway by the New Democratic Party.

New Atlantic Charter Proposed

FREDERICTON, N.B. (UPI) — Opposition leader Lester Pearson last night proposed a "new Atlantic Charter" to promote economic development in the Maritimes and Newfoundland.

Envisaged in the program were an area rehabilitation agency within the federal government, temporary tax concessions and industrial development grants to spur business.

Earlier, in Saint John he said he could not think of anything worse for Canada than re-election of the Conservative government.

Club Plans Trail Ride

At least 20 Colwood Trail Riders and friends are expected to take part in a six-hour trail ride through the Highland area starting at 9:30 a.m. Sunday from opposite the Thetis Lake Trailer Park.

The ride is planned for conditioning of riders and mounts before the special 100-mile centennial ride to be held later in the season.

Upsurge Coming —John D

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday night indicators point to a "tremendous upsurge" in Canada's economy.

He said in a national television address that Canada is entering on a period of tremendous growth.

Total private and public investment for expansion and modernization of capital facilities during the next 12 months was expected to exceed $2,500,000,000.

Mr. Diefenbaker asserted that 75 per cent of Canadians pay less personal income tax than when the Conservatives took office in 1957.

"We have strongly maintained the value of the dollar."

"The tight money policy which throttled Canadian business when we came to office is now a thing of the past, as was shown by the Bank of Canada report issued last week."

ORAN (Reuters).—The television station in this western Algeria's city was put out of action by an explosion last night in an apparent bid by right-wing extremists to prevent broadcasting of the imminent ceasefire in the Algerian war.

French sources, however, have issued a cease-fire proclamation which is to be made sometime this week. It is expected that announcements from Paris and Tunis, the Algerian interim headquarters, will be made.

MADRID (AP)—Municipal authorities have issued a "move" order to the owners of more than 11,000 urban cows which supply milk to Madrid neighbors by the direct cow-to-consumer process.

The order gives Madrid's cow owners four years in which to remove their animals to rural surroundings.

One of the oldest of the stations, dating to 1860, is in the Plaza de España, near the Tower of Madrid, Spain's tallest and most modern building.

BIG INVESTMENT
Stable owners are opposing the move into rural surroundings. Now their only expenses aside from rent, is food for their cows. Once they move from the neighborhood they serve, they complain, investments must be made in bottling vans for transport, and other equipment.

SYDNEY—Australia (AP)—Most tests of flesh samples of a giant crocodile found on Tasmania's west coast showed it preyed the monster came from the ocean depths, a scientist said Wednesday.

The 18-by-20-foot creature was killed between five and 10 tons, likely will remain a mystery at least until scientists make an expedition to the isolated beach next weekend to examine the bone structure.

A. R. Haly, senior research officer of the Commonwealth scientific and industrial research organization, said that a heat test the sample shrank about 65 degrees—slightly lower than that for whale flesh.

Old Age Claims Jubilee the Bear

Credit Unions 'Thwart Bank'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Credit unions in British Columbia have been "very definitely" responsive to the monetary policies of the Bank of Canada, the Porter royal commission on banking and finance was told Wednesday.

The statement was made by R. A. Monruff, managing director of the B.C. Credit Union League, in reply to commission member James D. Gibson of Toronto, general manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

'IMPORTANT QUESTION'

It evidently was a line of questioning the Credit Union League didn't invite. It began its submission to the commission by frankly begging off from any discussion of monetary and economic policy due to its own "unsophisticated attitude and approach."

But Mr. Gibson asked the question anyway and Mr. Monruff replied, noting that it was "a particularly interesting and important question for the commission."

BANK AFFECTED

Behind the exchange were contentious suggestions that a central bank action in expanding or contracting credit by decisions affecting chartered bank reserves—and thus their ability to make loans—was thwarted by "near banks" such as credit unions and trust companies which are not under the same degree of control.

Mr. Gibson, also a director of Toronto General Trusts Corporation and the Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada, asked whether the credit unions respond "very much" to changes in general credit conditions.

MORE TO SAY

"My own experience and observations have been that they tend to be very responsive to suggestions in this field," Mr. Monruff answered. But he added that the national credit union organization will have more to say at the commission's Ottawa sittings this summer and fall.

'Lash Beats Jail'

EDMONTON (CP)—Greater use of the lash would be a better deterrent to crime than long periods in jail, Keith Everitt (S.-St. Albert) Wednesday told the Alberta legislature.

He made the comment in questioning a $400,000 increase in administration costs of provincial jails.

"I am of the strong opinion that our jails today do not encourage the keeping of the law as much as they should. Perhaps the magistrates shouldn't be quite so lenient with the lash."

Mr. Everitt, speaking during the budget debate, said he felt it was wrong for the appeal court to alter sentences that included the lash to straight time in jail.

"It seems to me as though it (the lash) would be a greater deterrent to crime than a few years in jail."

Ministers Worried

Orthodox Sect Hurt?

TRAIL (CP)—Nine United Church ministers said Wednesday stringent measures proposed to stamp out terrorism by Sons of Freedom Doukhobors would retard the assimilation of Orthodox Doukhobors into Canadian ways.

In a statement issued by the church's Kootenay presbytery, the ministers said "woolly thinking about the Doukhobor problem... must be replaced by some realistic thought about a plain and simple criminal terrorist problem."

The statement by ministers from Trail, Rossland, Nelson, Castlegar and Creston follows proposals for confining Freedomites in reservations controlled by guards.

The ministers urged Kootenay residents not to engage in "senseless and violent vigilante retaliation" against Freedomites.

They said the beating of two men because they were thought to be Freedomites was an indication of a potentially dangerous situation.

Two men were fined for the assault in a Trail cafe last week.

Feeling ran high against Freedomites in southeastern B.C. last week after more than 1,000 men were thrown out of work by the bombing of a transmission tower, part of a system supplying power to mining and smelting operations.

Talk about reprisals against the Freedomite settlement at Krestova forced police to set up road blocks in the area last weekend but there were no incidents.

20 More Sons Plead Innocent

NELSON (CP)—Twenty Sons of Freedom Doukhobors went on trial here Wednesday on charges of conspiracy and attempted arson.

It was the largest group to appear in the special assize that opened here in January. Since the assize opened more than 20 Freedomites have been sentenced to terms ranging up to 25 years.

The 20, who pleaded not guilty, are charged with conspiring to set fire to orthodox Doukhobor villages at Pass Creek and Ootsichenia, near here and with attempting to burn six villages and two community halls in the settlements.

Villages are communal buildings shared by several families. The charges followed the discovery of unexploded bombs in various places throughout the villages.

'Take' Up After Scandal

OTTAWA (UPI)—Toll revenues on Montreal's Jacques-Cartier Bridge increased by $2,783,155 in the 27 months since an automatic collection system was installed, compared with the previous comparable period, the Commons was told yesterday.

The automatic collection system was installed after RCMP uncovered evidence that people who formerly did the job were stealing government funds.

Old-Timer Forecasts Great Year for North

TORONTO (CP)—Alex Berry of Whitehorse, Y.T., says 1962 will be the best for the north in the last 20 years.

Mr. Berry, a white-haired veteran of 37 years in the north, is one of the delegates at the prospectors and developers convention here.

"The north used to be a place where you made a stake, then left as quickly as possible," he said.

"But times have changed drastically."

He said communities have sprung up and there are paved streets, buildings, sewage systems and even television.

"People are coming here to live their lives in the north."

NEW CENTRES

Convention officials said much of the new excitement centres on the area near the southeast Yukon Territory-Northwest Territories boundary where gold, silver, lead and zinc strikes have been reported.

Gravel roads have been pushed along valley bottoms and along the slopes of the rugged mountains. A few firms—among them Canada Tungsten and Conwest Exploration—are spending millions of dollars on mine exploration and development.

Canada Tungsten has laid out a townsite on the rocky west slope of the flat river valley, 4,700 feet above sea level. The mill and other buildings of the town, to be called Tungsten, will be built this year.

The company is spending more than $2,000,000 and hopes to have its mill in operation this year.

SILVER PROJECT

A few miles south in the Tintina silver development, run by Conwest, which the department of northern affairs and national resources says was the most impressive discovery of 1961.

Prospectors say Tintina was found by veteran prospector Nels Hals, who worked with three pack dogs carrying 35 pounds each and one Indian packer.

Conwest will spend at least $400,000 in diamond drilling and other exploration work, starting this spring.

Invitations Issued

Fine Arts School Starting in '63?

Victoria University authorities last night invited local cultural groups to assist them in early establishment of a school of fine arts centred on the university campus.

The invitation was extended at an exploratory meeting called by Hugh Stephen, president of the Greater Victoria Art Gallery, and attended by representatives of the Symphony Society and university officials.

Mr. Stephen said he had called the meeting after reading an article in The Daily Colonist suggesting such a school was a natural endeavor.

He wanted to find the attitude of the university authorities and how local organizations might help the formation of a fine arts school.

DELAYING FACTOR

Dr. Harry Hickman, university principal, said a large arts faculty or department was part of the university's plan but lack of finances was a delaying factor.

New Problems

Out-Patient Care Booms at Jubilee

A steady increase in the number of patients admitted and a sharp rise in out-patient care in 1961 were noted last night at the annual meeting of Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Board of directors president Ian Horne said 12,688 patients were admitted during the year, an increase of 275 over the previous 12 months, while 28,682 patients received 108,542 treatments in the outpatient department.

SHOWS THE NEED

"This increase," said Mr. Horne, "shows the need to increase our emergency department and other out-patient services to meet the needs of the community and medical staff."

The building program currently in full swing has given rise to a host of secondary problems, Mr. Horne continued.

Expansion of laboratory facilities, increased laundry output, more parking space and a general rehabilitation program for existing buildings must all be provided shortly.

During the year, more than $100,000 was spent on new equipment.

Garbage Won't Force Old Sailor Out

By TED FULFORD
Fugacious little tugs chuff busily up and down the Inner Harbor, freighters clatter and bang as they slip out to sea.
The air is filled with the smoke and the fumes, the dust and the smells of a busy waterfront area.
But Max Lohbrunner, his tiny boat tied at the foot of the city garbage wharf, has neither eyes nor ears for any of this.

He remembers saloon packing the Inner Harbor so tightly the very water was churned by them; his mind's eye still sees Indians walking lastly in front of their lodges on the far shore.

"I can remember the fish," the old sailor said yesterday as he leaned against the cabin door of his boat and looked down at the oil-sodden water.

"I can see them yet. So thick they were you could see 100 of them jumping at the same time."
A huge load of garbage cascaded down into a truck less than 100 feet from Mr. Lohbrunner's floating home, but he didn't seem to hear.
He gestured up at the grimace-covered dock face on the near shore.
"See those ring bolts in the deck? The sealing ships used to tie up here, packed so close together their riggings were like a forest."
Besides Mr. Lohbrunner's tiny boat, only one other ship is tied nearby, the rotting whaler Green, with her engine room telegraph rusted frozen on the bow.
"She's a dead ship now," he said wistfully, "but there was a time when she and this whole harbor were alive with a different kind of commerce."

Mr. Lohbrunner—a young-looking 73—beamed animated when he talks of sealing.
"I can remember coming in here with a northwest at our tail," he said, and one could almost hear the salt spray singing.
"We just missed the old John-son Street bridge by six inches."
Mr. Lohbrunner is concerned over his future. City council has applied to purchase the water lot where his boat stands so the garbage wharf can be extended by 60 feet.
"The Interiors Co. right."
"These people have forgotten how important sealing was once," he said. "I'm the last of the old-time seal hunters on this waterfront, and I'm going to stay here."

Max Lohbrunner remembers when . . .

No Fees

City Loses Move To License Clubs

Private clubs in Victoria will continue to enjoy immunity from licence fees, city solicitor T. P. O'Grady said last night.

He disputed a claim that the city could find powers within the Municipal Act to impose licensing fees on such clubs as the Britannia Branch of the Legion and other city clubs.

'IN COMPETITION'

Licence fees, ranging up to $200 per annum, were sought by the city after protests were received from restaurant and cocktail bar operators, who claim private clubs are operating in competition for the public's business.

Mr. O'Grady said the only way the Municipal Act would apply would be to establish that the private clubs were carrying on business with the public, rather than with club members.

IN DANGER

And if that was established, he said, the club would be in danger of having its liquor licence revoked by the B.C. Liquor Control Board.

Rejection of the request by the legislature's private bills committee alarms the door on the city's bid to reopen its charter to widen control over clubs.

Mr. O'Grady said the solution

City to Encourage Property 'Facelift'

Plans are under way to set up special committees to encourage and assist Victoria citizens to give their city a facelift.

City council next week will be asked to give its blessing to the scheme proposed yesterday by AM. A. W. Toome, chairman of the city's urban renewal committee.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood objected to the proposed development, saying it would preclude development of the area for free, public use.

"We have wanted 100 years to get development on the Gorge, let's go ahead," Ald. Michael Griffin replied. Red-Hot Rumor Melts Bonner Isn't Leaving rumor swept through the legislative gallery like wildfire yesterday—Attorney-General Robert Bonner was to resign to take a job with a private firm with "international connections."

BEHIND THE SCENES: A

The rumor was traced back to Liberal leader Ray Perrault, who said it came from a very good source close to somebody who should know.

We were the first to ask Mr. Bonner for his comment.

"Hum!" said Mr. Bonner. "Very interesting—but it's not true."

By this time a Vancouver radio station was blaring the fact that Mr. Bonner was about to leave the cabinet.

Someone in Vancouver phoned Mr. Bonner to tell him of the news.

The situation was getting so far out of hand that Mr. Bonner made an official denial later in the afternoon.

"Unqualifiably no," he said.

But a few minutes later the lights on the opposition side went out also.

"Now we're all in the dark," someone said.

The lights flickered back on a few minutes later.

QUOTABLE QUOTE: After listening to speaker after speaker rise to debate various issues, Highways Minister Gagliardi, who has been amazingly quiet this session, commented: "It would be a good idea for fertilizer you could grow anything in the legislative chamber."

FOREIGN AFFAIR: Deaf Education Minister Peterson really believe in Social Credit monetary theories?

This question was raised in the legislature yesterday by question, Mr. Chairman," chortled Mr. Harding. "I'd like to thank the minister for his very enlightening answer."

LONG TO GO AND FAR AWAY: There's still no rush

by either the government or the opposition to wind up the current session of the legislature. Latest word from a reliable source—Premier Bennett as a matter of fact—is that the session will still be going at the end of the month. If they had really wanted to they probably could have wound up the proceedings by this Saturday.

NICE RECOVERY: True-life drama was enacted downtown the other evening when Judy Coughlin thrust out an arm to signal other drivers she was making a left-hand turn.

Her engagement ring went flying off her finger. Judy stopped the car when it was and began searching the roadway for the diamond ring.

A young fellow stopped his car and asked if he could be of any assistance.

"Yes," said Judy. "Have you got a flashlight?"

He had and the ring was soon recovered.

Everyone jumped back into their cars and happily drove off.

North Kiwanians Offer Hamsterley Park Plan

City parks committee yesterday welcomed a service club's offer to build a new concession booth at Hamsterley Park and take over the upkeep and improvement of the popular swimming spot.

The offer came from the Kiwanis Club of North Victoria which plans to make Hamsterley Park one of its main projects.

Parks committee decided to negotiate with the club over supply of materials for con-

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Readers: I considered the matter of the "chaste bride" closed but the mail continues to pour in. Obviously there are a great number of individuals who can write but cannot read.

Here is an example. This little gem came from Mrs. M.C. of Detroit:

"Dear Ann Landers: We are deeply disappointed in you. You said 'It is nobody's business if the signs of pregnancy show beneath the white dress and veil.' How could you make such a statement? In my opinion a girl who waited so long to get married, does not deserve to have a black wedding. If this happened to a daughter of mine she would be married as quickly and as quietly as possible.

Mrs. M.C. placed quotes around words which came straight out of HER head. The lines which she generally attributed to me did not appear in my column.

Perhaps someone ought to sit down with Mrs. M.C. and explain to her the difference between virginity and pregnancy. My reply went like this: "A bride does not owe her guests an affidavit of chastity. Whether or not she is as pure as the snow that floats is not your business."

The letter which ran off this 50 megaton explosion was written by a woman who felt that NO bride, save the purest of the pure, should be allowed to wear traditional white. I took exception to this on the grounds that it is impossible to recognize virtue on sight.

The unsullied, the slightly sullied and out-and-out tramps look alike. Since this is the case I say we should assume the best and not sit around and second-guess the bride.

It hardly seems worth saying, but I think I'll say it anyway, and leave no room for speculation—a bride who must release the seams of her white satin gown to make room for an heir who is half way home, makes a fool of herself, and richly deserves the criticism of those who are invited to witness the mockery.

Household Hints

Brush a coat a few times each day for longer garment life. Powder and rouge from face creams and powder leave work into collars and ruin their appearance.

Before laundering cardigan sweaters, haste the buttonholes together. These stitches keep the buttonholes from stretching.

To make suede gloves look fresh, rub gently with the fine-grained side of an emery board.

A coat of wax on the chrome trim of kitchen chairs will keep them from rusting.

Baking Soda Even Moves Into Field of Research

Good things come in little packages and one of the best things ever to come out of a little package is baking soda. Here's a commodity, costing but a few cents, which is just kaded with usefulness. It cleans most anything cleanable, makes baked goods rise, extinguishes fat fires, shines teeth, settles troubled stomachs and acts as a substitute for plasma when combined in solution with salt and drunk by apoc victims.

Now its usefulness has been extended from the home front to the field of research. Because of baking soda, British scientists who have long been trying to grow the cold virus, have at last succeeded. The basic mixture used to nourish the virus contained, among other things, baking soda. Results continued to be negative until one day the amount of soda was accidentally lessened. This lessening of the alkalinity of the mixture was exactly what the virus wanted. . . it grew.

Scientists around the world rejoiced, for ability to grow the virus in the laboratory constituted the first step in the production of a protective cold vaccine.

She's 23 and Working Very Hard To Be the First Woman in Space

By JACQUELIN KERRILL

The youngest staff astronaut in the U.S. Women-in-Space program feels her youth increases her chance of being first into outer space.

She is Miss Mary Wallace "Wally" Funk II, 23, the fourth of 12 women flyers to pass the independently financed tests given by the Lovelace Foundation for Medical Education and Research, Albuquerque, N.M.

"Since the first woman possibly will be part of a crew with several men and the ships for this have not been designed yet, some of the other women astronauts will have passed the age limit (30)," Miss Funk said, in an interview.

"Russia will have a woman in space before the United States calls for a crash program for women astronauts," Miss Funk predicted.

An attractive brunette with short, pixie-styled hair, Miss Funk is one of two women flight instructors for an airplane distribution corporation at Hawthorne, Calif.

"They wanted all women instructors but some men still refuse lessons from a woman," she said, a twinkle in her green eyes. She was one of the youngest pilots in the nation to hold five flying licenses—private pilot, commercial, single-engine, sea-plane, and instructor ratings—and she has logged more than 3,000 hours in the air.

"A skiing accident got me into all this. Since I was a physical education major and this limited my physical activity, I took up flying." This was in 1957 when she was a sophomore at Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., where she flew for the "Flying Ladies."

Then she went to Oklahoma State University where she was named the nation's foremost female pilot in 1959 and 1960 by the SRA, an international organization of women flyers, after intercollegiate air meets in which she performed with the OSU "Flying Aggies."

On graduation she became the first civilian flight instructor for the private Red Leg Flying Club at Fort Worth, Texas. A job she held until she came to California last October.

She volunteered to undergo the series of rigid mental and physical endurance and high altitude tests at the Lovelace Clinic—the same tests given the seven Mercury astronauts, on Feb. 29, 1961.

One week later, at 22, she had successfully passed every examination. Last summer she completed phase two—four days of isolation and psychological testing at Oklahoma

The real Gouda goes fast

Notice we said the real Gouda. There's a difference. The genuine article is created only in Holland, where the grass grows rich, and the cows grow plump, and the milk they make is almost too good to drink. Only Holland's farmers know how to work the proper magic with that milk. How to churn it and shape it, how long it should be aged. They alone take the care to give you Gouda Cheese the way it's made in texture, exquisite in taste. Gouda is so good, you can't stop eating it. Remember, the Dutch Girl emblem tells you it's the real Holland Cheese. And our new, free recipe booklet tells you all the ways to serve it. Ottawa Accused Of Slighting Organized Labor

OTTAWA (CP)—A new rift has developed in the uneasy relations between organized labor and the federal government.

Opening an old wound, the Canadian Labor Congress Wednesday accused the government of by-passing or ignoring organized labor in appointments to public bodies.

FINAL SAY

Labor Minister Starr replied that the government — and no other body — would have the final say on public appointments.

The charge and reply came as the 1,670,000-member congress delivered its annual policy submission to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the cabinet.

OTHER CASES

CLC President Claude Jodoin cited two recent examples where he felt labor had been slighted — on the royal commission on health services and the special committee of inquiry on unemployment insurance.

He said he could document other cases — an apparent reference to union appointments to the national productivity council and to earlier fights over labor nominees to the unemployment insurance commission and the unemployment insurance advisory committee.

UNDERSTANDING

The feud stems from an unwritten understanding that the Canadian Labor Congress, as national trade union centre, would be consulted whenever appointments from the ranks of labor are made.

Mr. Starr did not reply to the CLC's suggestion that its grievance might possibly be related to its activity in establishing the New Democratic Party.

"If this is so," said Mr. Jodoin, "it is hardly a plausible reason. The Congress is not, or does it intend to become, an affiliate of any political party."

Grid Talks Set

No Intrusion, Says John D

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday all provinces except Quebec have agreed to attend a dominion-provincial discussion on a national power grid here next week.

He added in a Commons reply to H. W. Herridge, parliamentary leader of the CCF-New Democratic Party group, that there is no question of intrusion by Ottawa into provincial jurisdiction over power resources. The proposed grid would link the power resources of the provinces and allow exchange of surplus power at periods.

Mr. Herridge asked whether Mr. Diefenbaker will meet Premier Bennett of British Columbia to discuss the Columbia River Treaty. Mr. Bennett is one of two premiers who are to attend the power grid conference. The other is Premier Roblin of Manitoba.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the only Columbia River meeting arranged is one between Mr. Bennett and Finance Minister Fleming. It is set for this weekend.

Ten to Sit Exams For $300 Award

Ten Greater Victoria students have been picked so far to write examinations for a $300 cash prize to be awarded in B.C. by the Canadian Association of Physicists.

Examinations, which will be held for students throughout B.C., will be given by the University of British Columbia May 1 on work covered up to junior matriculation. Greater Victoria competitors already selected are Harold Popma and Michael Whitfield, Mount View High School; Eric Newell, Donald Beach and Susan Lee, Victoria High School; Jack Newtham, Peter Reid and John Matthews, Esquimalt High School; Andrew Woodsworth and John Cramp-ton, Clarendon High School. Students from other schools will likely be selected following Easter examinations.

Saskatchewan Hopes For Prisons Relief

REGINA (CP)—Saskatchewan's penal institutions should be relieved of overcrowding to a large extent when new federal legislation becomes effective, Social Welfare Minister A. M. Nicholson said Wednesday.

Mr. Nicholson said the federal government had announced its intention to build a penitentiary in Alberta.

At the same time, federal authorities have said they would take over responsibility of inmates serving over one year in prison. The federal government also suggested there should be no sentences of between six months and one year so that provincial responsibility would be limited to prisoners facing sentences of less than six months.

Prune the Ornaments

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Now that we have the roses pruned, we'd better take a look at some of the other ornamental shrubs which may be in need of this attention.

For pruning purposes, most of the shrubs we grow on Vancouver Island can be classified into two groups: those which should be pruned in March, and those which are pruned immediately after flowering. It is the shrubs that bear their blossoms on new wood—on branches which will grow out this spring following the pruning—which require attention this month.

This group includes the summer-flowering Ceanothus such as the popular variety Gloire de Versailles, Indigo, Henri Defosse and Marie Simon, and any other varieties which come into bloom in the late summer or fall.

Other shrubs to be pruned in March are Buddleia Davidi, the shrubby Hypericum or St. John's Wort—which is often incorrectly called Rose of Sharon—the PeeGee and Snow Hill types of Hydrangea, and the summer-flowering kinds of Spiraea.

All of these except the Spiraea should be cut back hard, shortening all recent growth to within a few buds from its point of origin. Just six to nine inches of last year's extension growth may remain—even less in the case of a Butterfly Bush which has attained maturity and has filled its allotted space. In this case, the weakest and thinnest shoots should be cut right down to soil level, allowing only a few of the strongest to remain. If about one-third of the oldest shoots are cut right down to ground level every year, the shrub will renew itself completely every third year and will always remain young and vigorous.

The Spiraea make up quite a big and diverse family, requiring different techniques in their pruning. Anthony Waterer, Japonica, Douglasii and salicifolia will put on their best performance if the whole shrub is cut right down to the ground every year in March. This drastic pruning makes for quite a forest of shoots springing up from the roots, though, and it is best to go over these Spiraea again in May, thinning them out to avoid an overly congested bush.

The taller Spiraea such as Aitchisonii, Lindleyana, erubra and serotina require thinning rather than a proper pruning. These kinds should be allowed to grow naturally, without any cutting at all, until four or five feet tall, then a few of the older shoots can be cut at soil level every March to make room for young and vigorous growth.

Clematis Jackmanni—the familiar purple one—should have all of last year's extension growth taken off to within an inch or two of the old wood. Failure to cut back hard will result in long, straggling, naked stems with leaves and flowers all bunched together at the top. The lanuginosa and viticella types of Clematis are pruned in the same way.

One common error is to over-prune the winter Jasmine. All this plant needs is a little judicious thinning of overcrowded growth and the shortening of any long and straggling shoots.

It is still a bit early to prune the Mock Orange, but this should be done as soon as the shrub has finished blooming. All shoots which have borne blossoms are cut back to within two buds of their base.

When necessary, the Forsythias and the Flowering Currants may be pruned immediately after flowering, but with these subjects pruning should be a routine operation performed every year. Wait until they actually become too tall and straggly, then cut away about one-third of the oldest shoots at ground level and shorten the remaining growth to a convenient height.

After pruning, finish up the job by pricking over the soil around the bush with a digging fork—working very shallowly—and take in a dressing of a complete fertilizer such as Vigoro, Presto or Uplands Special at the rate of one cupful per square yard of rooting area.

John Crosby

Lining Up with the Beards

I saw a far-out movie, Last Year at Marienbad, the other night, and I must say I was disappointed. This is the film directed by Jean Renoir, who gave us Hiroshima, Mon Amour, which I loved, and my complaint about Marienbad is that it isn't far out enough.

Last Year at Marienbad arrives here with a towering reputation for being incomprehensible. The reviews are so puzzling that you have to read them in a mirror, or upside down, or sometimes right to left and down. These have been the murkiest reviews to come along since the book reviewers tried to explain Ulysses.

If there's anything I like it's a good incomprehensible far-out moon pitch, and I went up to the Carnegie Hall Cinema with my two dollars clutched in my hot little hand and stood in line with the other avant-garde (marvelously interesting collection of beards, deep thinkers, and intense young ladies in line there) and waited expectantly.

Last Year at Marienbad starts out very promisingly. A stretch of plain black film with a voice talking. In French, yet, it'd be better if it were in Hindustani, of course, but French will do. (Except in France, of course, where it really ought to be some other language.)

The first couple of scenes—a long exploration of the rooms and ceilings of the castle were pretty good. And the opening sequences with people all sitting around like chess pieces saying nothing were marvelously unrevealing and delightfully confusing.

But then the principals, Delphine Seyrig and Giorgio Albertazzi, appeared and things got—I'm about to use a dirty word, so get the children out of here—explicit. The hero, in short, is trying to seduce somebody else's wife. So what's so far out about that? This has been the basis of every movie since Rm Tin Tin.

And you know what the girl says? "Leave me alone!" What's new about that? Even worse, what's incomprehensible about that? If she'd said: "The calla lilies are in bloom." Or: "Nevermore the rilliers." Or: "The heart is a lonely hunter." Or something. But "Leave me alone." Even the clods can understand that.

The heroine looks a little like Jacqueline Kennedy and the whole movie reminded me strongly of Mrs. Kennedy showing off the White House. "This is the Red Room. It's red." That sort of dialogue. When your mind starts wandering to thoughts like that, obviously you're not being sufficiently puzzled.

All of which leads me circuitously to the whole subject of the far-out in the movies, the books, the paintings, the music—where it all started.

We have all been beaten into the acceptance of the weird to the point where we get awfully restive if we find anything at all understandable. Just the other day I saw an old-fashioned movie, "Dinner at Eight." It had motivation, for Pete's sake. Remember motivation! People did things because they wanted power, or money, or social position, or sex. You know—all that old-fashioned stuff. Jove, it seemed out-of-date. Slowfooted. Plodding. Explicit.

I saw a Renoir the other day. A painting of a girl with the nose in the right place. Only two eyes. Almost made me sick. They don't even put pictures like that on candy boxes any more.

Our taste has been so corrupted that we may never be able to look at a picture of a pretty girl again.

Whitman Gets Choosy

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Stuart Whitman, in great demand since his Oscar nomination for The Mark, has already turned down two big ones—The Victors for Carl Foreman ("I didn't like the character") and David Niven's Captive City in Rome. . . . Now all Stuart has to do is convince 20th Century-Fox that he can do Cary Grant type of comedy and he will win Marilyn Monroe and Something's Got to Give.

Frank Sinatra's "Clan" has a new member—Anthony Newby, who is star of Stop the World I Want to Get Off, introduced to the clan members by Joan Collins.

Montgomery Clift's reason for deserting Antonia with Sophia Loren, he said his role had been "watered down," and this really startled me. The story is of a brother and sister who are in love with each other! They won't be so in love in the version with Maximilian Schell. . . . Wills Catherer wrote My Antonia, and it has absolutely no resemblance to this Antonia movie.

Pretty Jacqui Chan is steaming because no one introduced her to Elizabeth Taylor before or after their scenes together in Cleopatra. Jacqui is back in London, still pestered for the account of her friendship with the man she knew as Tony Armstrong-Jones.

Sue Lyons, who plays nymphet Lolita in the film, won't be able to see herself in a public theatre. Children under 18 will not be admitted. Sue has two years to go!

Pat Boone, for a man who wouldn't even kiss a girl in his first films here, is now going the whole way in The Main Attraction in England. He seduces two women—Marilyn Zetterling, whom we all thought Tyrone Power would marry, and young Nancy Kwan whom we all hope Max Schell will marry. In his movie, Pat is also in trouble with the police because of a knifing brawl. Pat says he did not expect quite so much sex and violence, but one must move with the times apparently.

Joan Crawford, glamour star of yesterday, is very busy on the Hollywood scene these days, what with planning to present the Oscar for the best performance by an actor April 9, and her recent presence at the foreign Hollywood correspondents Golden Globe dinner. . . . Elizabeth Taylor, our modern-day glamour queen and last year's Oscar winner, will be too busy with her Cleopatra marathon in Rome to present the best actor award this year.

Robert Mitchum will have a new and better career as a grade A villain when Cape Fear is released. His relentless pursuit of the wife of the man (Gregory Peck) who sent him to prison, is one of the best performances of his career.

Montgomery Clift had seven minutes and Judy Garland very little more in the Nuremberg film. Both are highly touted to win in the "supporting" category. I don't believe these two important stars should be pitted against genuinely supporting players of the calibre of George Chakras and Rita Moreno. Monty and Judy should be in a special "star cameo" category. It isn't fair to the bona fide supporting players.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Fleisch

I spent the last week or so reading the new best-seller Captain Newman, M.D. by Leo Rosten (Harper). This is a glorious book. It's one of those that'll be read for years and years and will eventually wind up as a Broadway musical and part of American folklore.

Rosten is the author of the unforgettable Education of Hyman Kaplan, which was a series of riotous chapters about an immigrant who learns English in a night school. Now he has turned the same technique on something entirely different—life in the psychiatric ward of an air force hospital during the Second World War.

You wouldn't expect this to be good material for roaring comedy but it is—interspersed, to the continuing surprise of the reader, with stark, unalloyed tragedy. (Some reviewers said that the two interwoven parts of the book don't mix, but I don't feel that way. Rosten had a story to tell about modern psychiatry, and decided to tell it in his own way, making you laugh from time to time until it hurts.)

As I said, the book is essentially a fictionalized account of the wonders of modern psychiatry. To me that is its most interesting point. Rosten's Dr. Newman is a real hero—a doctor who is wondrously wise, fabulously courageous, and endowed with an unerring sense of what to do when. He's the typical doctor-hero everybody has heard and read of a thousand times, only this time it's psychiatry and the things he does are all new. He's an out-and-out Freudian and mainly performs his miracle cures by somehow getting at the patient's trauma—the forgotten, unhappy experience that unhinged his mind. The episodes in the book are therefore all suspenseful when. He's the typical doctor-hero everybody has heard and read of a thousand times, only of the psychosis is revealed.

Old-Fashioned

All of this makes for a splendid book, but—ironically—it's old-fashioned psychiatry. Freudian psychoanalysis has been getting nothing but brickbats in the past few years, and most of Dr. Newman's breathtaking work would be performed nowadays by routine application of electroshocks and tranquilizers and the unknown heroes of post-Freudian psychiatry. By then, of course, these things, too, will be past history and science will have arrived at something entirely different.

College Players 'Stoop'

Oliver Goldsmith Would Be Happy

By BERT BINNY

Oliver Goldsmith wrote just two plays. The Good-Natured Man (1768) is now a pretty dead issue, but She Stoops to Conquer (1773) is still bright and amusing, and most important of all, still performed.

The Victoria College Players' Club, with director Anthony Jenkins at the helm, opened it last night for a run of four nights.

GOOD PRODUCTIONS

The play doubtless owes much of its long life to good productions and the college version will prolong its life and popularity. Mr. Goldsmith would have been pleased.

It was well set and well lit. There was a stellar cast, some not as consistent as others but all fully acceptable. It was gay and lively and had excellent tempo.

MOST ACCURATE

Everybody took careful aim at the spirit of the age concerned but Barbara Brown as Constance Neville proved the most accurate.

She never lapsed into the 20th century vein. Nor did Valerie Byers in the smaller role of Pimple.

DELIGHTFUL COMEDY

Michael Stephen could have been slightly more dignified at the start but otherwise he was excellent. Horace Mayne provided delightful comedy as Tony Lumpkin but both he and Jennifer Dutton as Mrs.

Hardcastle were sometimes hard to hear. Morley as Christopher and Patrick Scott as George Hastings also gave fine performances.

BELIED ITS ERA

Sandra McKeachie's interpretation of Kate was always vivid but occasionally belied its era by becoming rather too vehement.

Virginia Lefever, David Milne and Lynn Christian completed an efficient cast. The play is on again tonight, Friday and Saturday, each evening at 8.15.

OAK BAY BEACH HOTEL

Puss and Clothes

Energetic Fantasy Direct from Grimm

By BERT BINNY

There was an afternoon of sheer fantasy straight from the pages of such as the brothers Grimm or Hans Andersen when the school drama festival entered its third day yesterday.

The host school, Gordon Head Elementary, opened the program with the first act of Puss in Boots, and Oaklands brought it to a close with the second act of The Emperor's New Clothes.

LONG PROGRAM

But for all that there were only two items on the program, it ran more than two hours.

Both plays were full of color, and adjudicator Yvone Firkins complimented the costuming and the projection in both. In fact, in one, the business of projection went a bit far.

"A tendency to shout made voices a little monotonous," observed the adjudicator.

HALF UNKNOWN

If there is one thing certain about the performers in this age bracket, it is that they can be relied on for almost unbelievable energy and concentration or none at all. Half measures are unknown to them.

Outstanding in Puss in Boots were diminutive Ricky Gardner, Gregory Howell, Lorraine Parkhouse and the pair of Lorreen Westcott and Sheila Grant.

OUT OF SICKBEDS

But none of the others was far behind, despite the fact some of them had climbed out of sickbeds to perform. The show must go on—colds, flu and other ailments notwithstanding.

The adjudicator noted "very good attempts at characterization" in this play as well as "some very attractive groupings and excellent entrances."

GOOD CONTRAST

"New Clothes for the Emperor," said Mrs. Firkins, "was an ambitious attempt." And she commended Brian Harding as Piers and Rodney Smelser as Perkins for a "good contrast in types."

The festival moved to Mount View High School in the evening for the plays, More Things in Heaven, and The Pie and the Tart, by Mount View, and a massive offering by Colquitz Junior High School, The Princess Who Disappeared.

This evening there are three plays at Lansdowne Junior High, starting at 8. Lansdowne presents The Grand Cham's Diamond, Glenlyon Preparatory has Understudy to a King, and Belmont Junior-Senior High, The Mayor of Toronto.

New Catholic College Won't Get Grants —Peterson's Policy

Education Minister Peterson said last night a college which the Roman Catholic Church is building at Prince George should not expect to receive provincial grants.

He was replying to a question from Gordon Dowling (NDP-CCF—Burraby), who asked Mr. Peterson what the government's policy would be in regard to denominational colleges.

"That is their own project," said the education minister. "It would have the same status as Notre Dame at Nelson."

Notre Dame does not receive provincial grants, said Leo Nemanick (NDP-CCF—Cran-

SPCA Defends 'Faithful' Official

DUNCAN — A local SPCA official yesterday took strong exception to city council's recent criticism of SPCA inspector Michael Carmichael.

Mayer Jack Dehnen told council Monday he had received complaints that the inspector had been rude and guilty of poor treatment of animals. Aldermen felt the inspector should show greater leniency in the matter of impounding animals and in charging fees.

Society spokesman Miss Mary Walden retorted yesterday the inspector is the SPCA's responsibility.

She commended the inspector for good work.

In a statement she pointed out: "We are most perturbed by recent criticism in the city council meeting of our local officer. We have been with us for nearly two years during which time he has served the district faithfully and well."

"I cannot understand why the complaints should have been made. I would, however, point out our officer does have to meet some people on touchy points concerning their legal liability on the treatment of animals and on licensing and no doubt people get just as nasty with him as they do when they get a parking ticket."

"I can fully understand that. The public may not assume that any other cause for complaint will be dealt with in a fair and proper manner."

"We on our part ask the public to be fair to our inspector. He is doing a difficult job."

Charges in Ottawa by Citizenship Minister Fairclough that a Victoria company's bid for timber on a northern Indian Reserve was "padding" were regarded calmly by a group of officials yesterday.

Laan Sherwin, president of Beaufort Industries, said he had no wish to give an opinion on the charge as he was too closely associated with the company's offer.

"We are prepared to show our files to anyone," he said. "The facts speak plainly for themselves."

Charges arose out of a dispute in the Commons between Judy LaMarsh (L—Niagara Falls) and Mrs. Fairclough.

Miss LaMarsh said awarding of a timber cutting license on the Timpanian Indian Reserve north of Prince Rupert to Shoreline Lumber Co. of Vancouver was a case of collusion.

The Vancouver company entered a $762,000 bid, and "some fringe benefits" while the Victoria company offered $2,237,825.

School Financing Methods Antiquated, House Told

The provincial government must assume the cost of education in B.C. until the federal government undertakes its responsibility on school financing, the legislature was told yesterday.

Mrs. Lois Haggen (NDP-CCF—Grand Forks-Greenwood) said school tax must be lifted from the land and the full cost of education must be borne by government as a social service.

She said the present methods of school financing were "antiquated" and said just because the formula was suitable when it was imposed many generations ago did not mean it should be continued today.

The member speaking during debate on Education Minister Leslie Peterson's salary estimates touched on a broad variety of education matters.

She charged that the government was "tied to that old dollar sign" when it came to education expenditures.

METHOD USED

"The department has taken from the Chant recommendations only those things which it will cost the least to implement and this at a very slow pace," said Mrs. Haggen.

Urging that schools be used more for adult education, the member said schools were expensive buildings, costly to maintain, and therefore should be used the year around by all who could benefit from their use.

Aid Level Too Low

Alberta Socialist member John Squire said Wednesday night the provincial government's scholarship and bursary allotments do not begin to scratch the surface of the need.

Mr. Squire said that the $575,000 set aside by the government for scholarships and bursaries to aid students attending the University of B.C. is inadequate.

The increased fees and board rates brought in two years ago, left the students worse off financially than they were 10 years ago.

The member also said there should be a dis-pensary basis for teacher selection—intelligence, academic achievement, mental alertness, physical health, communicative skills and community activity record.

CCFer Used to Cry If School Was Out

Arthur Turner (NDP-CCF—Vancouver East) thinks B.C. students don't like to go to school.

He waved a picture of a group of youngsters happy because their school burned down.

"When we have an education system where youngsters are happy that a school burned down, something is wrong," he complained to Education Minister Leslie Peterson.

"Think back Arthur" quipped Mr. Peterson.

"When I was a youngster, I used to cry if my mother told me I couldn't go to school," replied Mr. Turner without the trace of a smile.

'Vocational' Not Inferior Among Provincial Classes

Public Asked To Decide Water Plans

Some 200 residents of the Deep Cove-Patricia Bay area are expected to attend a public meeting in the Mills Road Legion Hall at 8 p.m. tonight to decide whether or not to launch a plebiscite creating a new water district.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Deep Cove Property Owners' Association.

Association secretary M. A. Darling said yesterday the meeting follows about three years of planning by residents of the district.

He said the water problem in the area is becoming increasingly acute due to a receding water table and the possibility of well pollution from septic tank drainage.

Scuffle In Hotel Costs $50

Jeffrey Sullivan, Work Point Barracks, was fined $50 for assault yesterday as the aftermath of a scuffle with Strathcona hotel manager John Olson during a soldiers' party that spilled out into the corridors of the hotel.

Police told Magistrate Willem Ooster that Olson had found Sullivan drinking beer in a corridor, and had tried to urge him back into a room.

Sullivan made uncomplimentary remarks about Premier Bennett and about B.C. liquor laws—and finished drinking the bottle.

As Olson was picking up the bottle, Sullivan struck him.

Another soldier, Alvin Paulman, Albert Head Barracks, was fined $30 for being a minor in possession of liquor.

Edward Fortin, 451 Parry, was fined $100 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident. He was fined $250 Saturday when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Sweaters Displayed In Court

Magistrate's court in the provincial courthouse took on the appearance of a gift shop yesterday when Royal Canadian Mounted Police produced Indian sweaters and polished rock jewelry as evidence in a charge of breaking and entering and theft.

John Gordon William Burkmar, no fixed address, was committed for trial in County Court on charges of breaking and entering Sidney Bakery and Sidney Arts, Beeson and Second, Sidney, and stealing 12 Indian sweaters and rock jewelry, Feb. 17-18.

Ivor Dennis Jensen, no fixed address, pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing six stolen bolo ties with polished pebble ornaments and two key-chains with rock ornaments.

Magistrate A. I. Thomas remanded Jensen for sentence until March 20.

Burkmar and his grey-haired father, George Burkmar, confronted each other across the courtroom when Crown counsel Kenneth Murphy called Burkmar senior to the witness stand.

Burkmar, senior, a service-station employee working and living at the Malahat Chalet, said that his son had paid him a visit Feb. 18, and "asked me if Denay could leave a box of clothes."

He identified Ivor Dennis Jensen as "Denny" who had visited him with his son.

RCMP Cpl. Reg Blackmore, told of finding a cardboard box of Indian sweaters under a bed in the Malahat Chalet.

Arms Talks Open

GENEVA (CP) — The 17-nation disarmament conference began its work at a brief session Wednesday with the Western powers holding some hope of an agreement to halt the spread of nuclear weapons outside the atomic club.

American and British officials conceded this limited optimism would be far short of the official goal of agreement on a verified general disarmament and a nuclear test ban.

But they said it might restrain the atomic arms race and open up possibilities for more difficult disarmament measures later.

Test Detector Main Objective Of U.S. at Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy at a press conference yesterday said the U.S. position in the world would be strengthened if it did not have to resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere.

He remarked that is why he especially hopes for agreement on a test-ban treaty with effective safeguards.

At the same time, he said the United States would submit at the Geneva disarmament conference proposals designed to permit a check on preparations for nuclear testing. However, the most significant objective is to establish a system to detect an actual test, he said.

READER LETTER

Kennedy read from a letter to State Secretary Rusk in Geneva expressing hope "that you will quickly be able to report agreement on an outline defining the over-all shape of a program for general and complete disarmament in a peaceful world."

WIDEN AREA

Kennedy also urged Rusk to obtain a definition of the widest area of agreement that can quickly be put into effect. No single measure in the field of disarmament, he said, could alleviate tensions more than a safeguarded nuclear test ban.

Minister insists:

Blow to Industry If Meat Inspected

Agriculture Minister Richter was asked yesterday to allow only federal government inspected meat to be sold to the public. The request came from the B.C. Federation of Labor which submitted a brief to the minister.

Mr. Richter said that if this happened under present federal regulations, half the small operators in the B.C. meat industry would be knocked out of business.

PROTECTION SOUGHT

The B.C. government wishes to protect the small meat plants, Mr. Richter said, but at the same time it hopes to maintain just as high health standards as those demanded by Ottawa.

The federation's brief said that recent investigations into the meat industry by "interested groups" in B.C. have focused public interest on the subject of contamination.

IMPULSIVE

"Many citizens would not have believed that there are people who would so unscrupulously take advantage of their confidence and profit by the sale of contaminated meat totally unfit for human consumption," the brief said.

"The idea of this illegal operation makes it imperative that guarantees be established so that this will never happen again."

NOT SUFFICIENT

Provincial and municipal inspections were not sufficient, the federation said.

It also called for stricter inspection on slaughtered animals by qualified veterinarians.

It said that meat can carry such diseases as tape worm, tuberculosis, salmonella and brucellosis.

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP)—A car dealer accepted a horse as a trade-in for a car Wednesday.

Albert Dango, who runs a stable here, got $225 for an eight-year-old horse on the purchase of a 1957 model car for $225.

The auto dealer put the horse on display in his showroom with a price tag of $225.

No Protection

Cominco Arms Guards

TRAIL (CP)—The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. has mounted armed guards on its industrial and hydro installations because no federal or provincial statute has been enacted to give protection. (See also Page 12.)

Vice-president and general manager Ralph Perry said Wednesday: "The situation is expected to make its own protective arrangements."

FORCE AUGMENTED

As a result, Cominco has placed employees armed with rifles and shotguns in its industrial and hydro installations, on guard duty, patrolling its transmission lines, power plants and dams.

The company will not announce the strength of guard personnel as it does not want terrorists to know. However, its armable industry security force has been augmented by local men and 20 others from Kimberley.

DEAL ADEQUATELY

Cominco's position is that it does not want to be saddled with the guarding of any installations. It wants the government to deal adequately with the Sons of Freedom. "In the meantime," said Mr. Perry, "we are forced to take costly precautions to try and keep our industry intact—and that means to keep men employed."

"When we are satisfied that the lives and livelihood of our employees are no longer endangered by terrorists, we shall be only too happy to withdraw our guards."

Fabulous Howe Hits 500-Goal Milestone

NEW YORK—Detroit Red Wings' fabulous Gordie Howe scored his 500th National Hockey League goal here last night, to become the second man in the history of the league to pass the milestone.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal retired in 1960 with 544 to his credit.

Howe's goal was scored as New York Rangers beat Detroit 3-2. See picture, story on Page 12.

Bid for China Trade

U.S. Firm Asks Right To Ship Wheat to Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—no comment to make at this time. Communist China is expected to be short 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 tons of wheat this year, according to agricultural experts. Canada and Australia have shipped wheat to China in the past but now are reported scrapping the bottom of their grain barrel.

EMBARGO ON TRADE

U.S. wheat carries a government subsidy of 50 to 70 cents a bushel and sells for $60 a ton on the world market. U.S. agriculture officials have been anxious to reduce the large surplus in this country, but there is an embargo against U.S. trade with Communist China.

PLEAS for improved facilities at Oakalla prison farm, especially for treatment of drug-addicted and emotionally-disturbed prisoners, are made in the 1961 report of the director of corrections for British Columbia.

The director, E. G. B. Stevens, said provision must be made for a special unit to give adequate treatment to emotionally disturbed prisoners at Oakalla.

Need Segregation

Oakalla warden Hugh Christie said the institution has never had a higher number of seriously ill drug-addicted patients and he stressed the need for segregation facilities in the prison hospital.

The report was tabled in the legislature by Attorney-General Bonner.

"We have never had a higher number of seriously ill drug-addicted patients," he said.

CCFer Laments Public Apathy On Constitution

Wide Circulation Of Bill Urged

Wide public circulation of a draft bill to amend the constitution of Canada should be given before the B.C. legislature is asked to give its approval to the draft, a special committee recommended in the House Wednesday.

The committee was appointed earlier in the session to study the draft act, drawn up after several meetings of provincial and federal authorities.

Its report said the proposed changes to the constitution of Canada are of major importance to the people of Canada and of B.C. in particular.

It said the legislature should take no further action on the matter this session, but should reconvene the committee next year to study the act again and to hear public submissions on it.

In the meantime, the attorney-general's department should circulate copies to Victoria University, UBC, the Canadian and B.C. Bar Associations and any other interested parties for scrutiny and comment.

Tony Gargrave (NDP-CCF—Mackenzie), a lawyer who sat on the committee, said he and other members of the committee were "saddened and dismayed by the lack of public interest in the bill."

"This is the most fundamental issue before us at this session," he said. The constitutional changes would affect the lives of Canadians for years to come.

Power to Repeal

The draft act would have the British Parliament, which set up the constitution through the enactment of the British North America Act, give the Canadian Parliament powers to repeal, amend and re-enact any provisions of the constitution of Canada, with certain limitations.

These limitations require the approval of all or various numbers of the provincial legislatures, depending upon what provisions are involved.

For instance, approval of all 10 provinces would be required before the federal house could change the constitution's provisions relating to the powers of the legislatures to make laws; the rights or privileges granted or secured by the constitution to the legislature or government of a province; the assets of a province; and the use of English or French language.

To change any provision of the constitution relating to education in any province other than Newfoundland, the approval of all provinces except Newfoundland would be required.

The New Democratic Party-CCF caucus, in a statement released outside the house by Mr. Gargrave, said it did not agree with portions of the draft act.

Entrenched Rights

The statement said the provincial fundamental rights of education and language must be entrenched in the constitution and the present draft does not provide a flexible amending procedure for non-fundamental matters.

The draft bill would permit one province to veto important social and economic legislation which might require a rearrangement of legislative powers.

The statement also said the draft does not contain a bill of rights.

"A provision for the amendment of our own constitution in Canada is desirable but it should not be achieved if it puts Canada's constitution in a straight jacket," the statement said.

The NDP-CCF caucus however, approved of the portion of the bill permitting the delegation of powers between the provinces and the federal government.

Nine-Storey Block Overrides Planners' Howls

A planning group's wholesale opposition to construction of a nine-storey high-rise apartment building on Douglas Street, opposite Thunderbird Park, was ignored last night by city zoning commission.

Council's advisory planning commission registered a strongly worded opposition to a Calgary firm's plans to build a $1,000,000 building on land stretching between Douglas and Blanshard Streets.

But on the motion of Ald. Michael Griffin, the zoning committee rejected the planning commission's report.

ZONED FOR SIX

"This area is zoned for six storeys now," he said.

"I would like to see us noted for co-operating with these fellows if they are going to dump their money in here, and bend a rule if necessary."

Ald. Griffin moved that the company be given permission to build a nine-storey apartment on the land, subject to adequate space being allowed between the building and the boundaries of the property.

SENT TO COUNCIL

The committee's recommendation will be sent to next week's meeting of city council. Main objections by the planning commission were that the property is too small for the size of building proposed, but that a loophole in the city's high-rise bylaw made it temporarily legal for the building to be erected.

The planning commission warned that amendments to the high-rise bylaw will soon be passed by council, prohibiting similar buildings in smaller locations.

Decision as to whether Victoria University will become a separate institution free from the University of B.C. will be postponed until next UBC President John Barfoot MacDonald takes over later this year.

WON'T BE SOLVED

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said the legislature last night that the problem of Victoria University's relationship as UBC would not be solved for some time.

NO AGREEMENT

"We had a joint committee studying the question but they could not reach agreement," said the minister. "We have now decided to wait until the new president takes over before we do anything further on the matter."

Dr. MacDonald will take over the presidency from Dr. Norman MacKenzie in a few months.

Tories Take Thumping

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's ruling Conservative party took a thumping in two by-elections Wednesday as a Labour party candidate retained one seat with an increased voting edge and a Liberal won in a ridge formerly held by a Conservative.

Liberal victor Eric Lubbock gave the governing party its severest setback in a contest in Orpington, a riding the Conservatives held by almost 15,000 votes in the 1959 general election.

Everything MPs Say On Tape-Recorder?

OTTAWA (CP) — Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) maintained Wednesday in the Commons that everything said in the House is being tape-recorded in a basement room of the Parliament Building without the knowledge of most MPs.

NO INFORMATION

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he hasn't any such information.

Speaker P. C. S. M. Macdonald said the matter involves the chair and that it is Commons practice not to involve the Speaker in any controversy.

TEST FAILED

Mr. Winch pursued the subject. He said that approximately a year ago the Commons had given consent for an experiment with a tape recorder. The experiment had failed and he had no knowledge of a new experiment at this session.

Mr. Macdonald said Mr. Winch could get a motion so that the matter could be debated. Mr. Winch did not make any immediate motion to this effect.

Garbage Won't Force Old Sailor Out

By TED PULFORD
Fragrant little tugs chuff busily up and down the Inner Harbor, freighters clatter and bang as they slip out to sea.

The air is filled with the smoke and the fumes, the dust and the smells of a busy waterfront area.

But Max Lohbrunner, his day boat tied at the foot of the city garbage wharf, has neither eyes nor ears for any of this.

His neighbors' boats patting the Inner Harbor so tightly the very water was churned by them; his mind's eye still sees Indians walking lazily in front of their lodges on the far shore.

"I can remember the fish," the old sailor said yesterday as he leaned against the cabin door of his boat and looked down at the old wooden water.

"I can see them yet. So thick they were you could see 100 of them jumping at the same time."

A huge load of garbage cascaded down into a truck less than 100 feet from Mr. Lohbrunner's floating home, but he didn't seem to hear.

He gestured up at the grimace-covered rock face on the near shore.

"See those ring bolts in the rock? The sealing ships used to tie up here, packed so close together their ring bolts were like a forest."

Besides Mr. Lohbrunner's tiny boat, only one other ship is tied nearby; the rotting whaler Green, with her engine room telegraph rusted frozen at "stop," her heavy gun tottering on the bow.

"She's a dead ship now," he said wistfully, "but there was a time when she and this whole harbor were alive with a different kind of commerce."

Mr. Lohbrunner—a young-looking 75—becomes animated when he talks of sealing.

"I can remember coming in here with a northwester at our tail," he said, and one could almost hear the salt spray singing.

"We just missed the old Johnsen Street bridge by six inches."

Mr. Lohbrunner is concerned over his future. City council has applied to purchase the water lot where his boat stands so the garbage wharf can be extended by 60 feet.

He intends to fight.

"These people have forgotten how important sealing was once," he said. "The last of the old-time seal hunters on this waterfront, and I'm going to stay here."

Max Lohbrunner remembers when . . .

Invitations Issued

Fine Arts School Starting in '63?

Victoria University authorities last night invited local cultural groups to assist them in early establishment of a school of fine arts centered on the university campus.

The invitation was extended at an exploratory meeting called by Hugh Stephen, president of the Greater Victoria Art Gallery, and attended by representatives of the Symphony Society and University officials.

Mr. Stephen said he had called the meeting after reading an article in The Daily Colonist suggesting such a school was a natural endeavor.

He wanted to find the attitude of the university authorities and how local organizations might help the formation of a fine arts school.

Dr. Harry Hickman, university principal, said a fine arts faculty or department was part of the university's plan but lack of finances was a delaying factor.

No Fees

City Loses Move To License Clubs

Private clubs in Victoria will continue to enjoy immunity from licence fees, city solicitor T. P. O'Grady said last night.

He disputed a claim that the city could find powers within the Municipal Act to impose licensing fees on such clubs as the Britannia Branch of the Legion and other city clubs.

Mr. O'Grady said the only way the Municipal Act would apply would be to establish that the private clubs were carrying on business with the public rather than with club members.

And if that was established, he said, the club would be in danger of having its liquor licence revoked by the B.C. Liquor Control Board.

Rejection of the request by the legislature's private bills committee to reopen its charter to widen control over clubs.

Senior Citizens' Group Plans Apartment Block

Preliminary studies have been launched by the Victoria Senior Citizens' Housing Society for construction of a 40-unit apartment block on Townley Street near Lansdowne Junior High School.

City architect Clive Campbell, chairman of the society's building committee, told the annual meeting the planning was still in the initial stages.

The project, which is expected to start this year, calls for construction of a two-story apartment building which will supply accommodation to single persons.

The meeting, which was held at Spencehouse, was held by society treasurer Arthur Jacobs, who said the building fund had been bolstered by a $5,727 legacy from the estate of Leopold Skelton.

New slate of officers elected included Mrs. May Campbell, president; Capt. H. M. B. Bell, vice-president; Glen Hamilton, secretary and Arthur Jacobs, treasurer.

City to Encourage Property 'Facelift'

Plans are under way to set up special committees to encourage and assist Victoria citizens to give their city a facelift.

City council next week will be asked to give its blessing to the scheme proposed yesterday by Ald. A. W. Toome, chairman of the city's urban renewal committee.

Ald. Toome suggested formation of an advisory committee under the chairmanship of William Jorgensen, assistant city engineer, with four sub-committees.

The subcommittees would handle four aspects of "Operation Facelift": building improvements, building expansions, landscaping of lots and methods of financing the work.

Formation of the advisory committee was recommended yesterday by the urban renewal committee.

"Once this is set up we hope the people of Victoria will take advantage of the services offered," Ald. Toome said last night.

They will not be referred to individual businesses or contractors—there is no intention of making this some sort of better business bureau.

Persons interested in improving their properties will be able to obtain expert advice on what to do and how to do it.

Beware of Scalpers In Booking for Fair

Officials of the Seattle World's Fair have issued a strong warning against paying more than $5.50 for "bonus books" of fair tickets.

A practice of selling the books at $10 with the promise that the price will soon rise to $15 is developing, officials say.

The scalping practice has been reported in several areas of the Pacific Northwest.

Red-Hot Rumor Melts Bonner Isn't Leaving

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

BEHIND THE SCENES: A rumor swept through the legislative gallery like wildfire yesterday—Albertus General Bonner was to resign to take a job with a private firm with "international connections."

Education Minister Les Peterson, a lawyer, would take over as attorney-general.

The rumor was traced back to Liberal leader Ray Fernside, who said it came from a very good source close to somebody who should know.

We were the first to ask Mr. Bonner for his comment.

"Hmm," said Mr. Bonner. "Very interesting—but it's not true."

By this time a Vancouver radio station was blaring the fact that Mr. Bonner was about to leave the cabinet.

Someone in Vancouver phoned Mr. Bonner to tell him of the news.

The situation was getting so far out of hand that Mr. Bonner made an official denial later in the afternoon.

"Unquestionably so," he said.

LIGHT-HEARTED: The lights on the government side of the legislature all went out during yesterday afternoon's proceedings.

"There's an answer to your question," said the opposition member.

question, Mr. Chairman," chorused Mr. Harding. "I'd like to thank the minister for his very enlightening answer."

LONG TO GO AND FAR AWAY: There's still no rush by either the government or the opposition to wind up the current session of the legislature. Latest word from a reliable source—Premier Bonner as a matter of fact—is that the session will still be going at the end of the month. If they had really wanted to they probably could have wound up the proceedings by this Saturday.

DEBATE: Mr. Chairman, "I'd like to thank the minister for his very enlightening answer."

And with that he read an excerpt from a publication issued by the Union of Electors—Quebec's arch-Secrec theorist. The excerpt said universities should be abolished until they start teaching Secret monetary theories.

"Do you believe this?" asked Mr. Harding.

"Out of order," snapped committee chairman Alex Matthews (BC—Vancouver Centre).

But Mr. Peterson answered anyway.

"Would you like to hear the speech I gave on the subject in Montreal?" he asked Mr. Harding.

"Well, not all of it," countered the opposition M.L.A. "Just the important parts."

"I have the speech right here," said the minister. "Here it is."

And with that he began reading—in French! "That really answers my question."

'Stop Choosing Mac-Powell'

Alfred NDP-CCF member John Squire last night asked the government to stop appointing school trustees in his area.

He objected to the legislature to appointment of a Mac-Powell. Blomfield and Powell River officials to the local school board, saying: "We're a grown-up area. We're not little children any more."

B.C. has named company officials to the Alberni board because Mac-Powell pays a large share toward school costs, and "We don't need appointees any more."

NANAIMO — Mayor Pete Maffeo has been urged to ask the local groups which ask the school regularly for funds to join the Nanaimo United Appeal for a two-year trial.

Cost Split Given in Alberni

Dog Pound Costs Distorted Says Ratepayers' Society

ALBERNI—Doubts of the financial future of a proposed joint Alberni-Port Alberni dog pound were expressed in a brief submitted by Alberni Ratepayers and Citizens' Society at a public hearing this week.

W. K. Smith of the department of municipal affairs heard submissions from organizations and individuals.

The ratepayers' group claimed city council estimates of the cost of the proposed pound appeared to be distorted. It was also claimed the operation would not provide more efficient control of dogs. The brief, read by secretary Walter R. H. Prescott, stated the city would have to have three times as many dogs to make the operation self-supporting within five years.

Ald. George Dunbar, presenting council's brief, showed dog control had cost the city $127 in 1961 and only the barest service was provided.

He said employment of a full-time poundkeeper was not feasible for one city but the proposed arrangement would make it possible to provide enforcement of new regulations which would control the dogs of both cities.

He gave details of the plan to place the service in the hands of the SPCA.

Operating costs would be divided on the basis of 27½ per cent for Alberni, 72½ per cent for Port Alberni. After the first two or three years, the project should be self-sustaining.

Alberni Voters' Association, represented by Don Lloyd, and the SPCA, represented by Fred Straman, presented submissions in support of the plan. According to the AVA, "the proposal provides a long-range solution to the problem of dog control."

She commended the inspector for good work.

In a statement she pointed out: "We are most perturbed by recent criticism in the city council meeting of our local officer. He has been with us for nearly two years during which time he has served the district faithfully and well."

"I cannot understand why the complaints should have been made. I would, however, point out our officer does have to meet some people on touchy points concerning their legal liability on the treatment of animals and on licensing and no doubt people get just as nasty with him as they do when they get a parking ticket."

"I can fully understand that. The public may rest assured that any other cause for complaint will be dealt with in a fair and proper manner."

Cougar Treed Killed

COURTENAY—Bex, a roan hound belonging to John McCabe, treed a cougar in his master's yard.

The cougar, an 85-pound male, was spotted by Mr. McCabe on his property near his house. His first shot wounded the cat, which headed for the bush, leaving no tracks on the frozen snow.

Bex followed, baying all the way, and finally treed the cougar about a mile away.

Mid-Island

Tooth Decay Worse

NANAIMO—A mid-Island health official says dental decay among school children is getting worse.

Dr. Dennis Bullen, regional dental consultant with the Central Vancouver Island health unit, said: "Only one child in every 10 starting school has perfectly healthy teeth. The other 90 per cent miss a lot of school-work because of toothaches and trips to the dentist."

"Parents and relatives are often the worst enemies of the child's dental health."

Arms Talks Open

GENEVA (CP) — The 17-nation disarmament conference began its work at a brief session Wednesday with the Western powers holding some hope of an agreement to halt the spread of nuclear weapons outside the atomic club.

American and British officials conceded this limited attainment would be far short of the official goal of agreement on verified general disarmament and a nuclear test ban.

But they said it might restrain the atomic arms race and open up possibilities for more difficult disarmament measures later.

FRANCE ABSENT

The delegates from five Eastern bloc, four Western and eight non-aligned countries got disarmament negotiations rolling again after a two-year lapse. The seat of France is vacant because President de Gaulle has

Test Detector Main Objective Of U.S. at Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy at a press conference yesterday said the U.S. position in the world would be strengthened if it did not have to resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere.

He remarked that is why he especially hopes for agreement on a test-ban treaty with effective safeguards.

At the same time, he said the United States would submit at the Geneva disarmament conference proposals designed to permit a check on preparations for nuclear testing. However, the most significant objective is to establish a system to detect an actual test, he said.

HEADS LETTER

Kennedy read from a letter to State Secretary Rusk in Geneva expressing hope "that you will quickly be able to report agreement on an outline defining the overall shape of a program for general and complete disarmament in a peaceful world."

WIDEST AREA

Kennedy also urged Rusk to obtain a definition of the widest area of agreement that can quickly be put into effect. No single measure in the field of disarmament, he said, could alleviate tensions more than a safeguarded nuclear test ban.

Minister Insists:

Blow to Industry If Meat Inspected

Agriculture Minister Richter was asked yesterday to allow only federal government inspected meat to be sold to the public. The request came from the B.C. Federation of Labor which submitted a brief to the minister.

Mr. Richter said that if this happened under present federal regulations, half the small operators in the B.C. meat industry would be knocked out of business.

PROTECTION SOUGHT

The B.C. government wishes to protect the small meat plants, Mr. Richter said, but at the same time it hopes to maintain just as high health standards as those demanded by Ottawa.

The federation's brief said that recent investigations into the meat industry by "interested groups" in B.C. have focused public interest on the subject of contamination.

'IMPERATIVE'

"Many citizens would not have believed that there are people who would so unscrupulously take advantage of their confidence and profit by the sale of contaminated meat totally unfit for human consumption," the brief said.

"The size of this illegal operation makes it imperative that guarantees be established so that this will never happen again."

NOT SUFFICIENT

Provincial and municipal inspections were not sufficient, the federation said.

It also called for stricter post-mortem on slaughtered animals by qualified veterinarians.

It said that meat can carry such diseases as tape worm, tuberculosis, salmonella and brucellosis.

No Protection

Cominco Arms Guards

TRAIL (CP) — The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. has mounted armed guards on its industrial and hydro installations because no federal or provincial statute has been invoked to give protection. (See also Page 19.)

Vice-president and general manager Ralph Perry said Wednesday: "The situation seems to be that a corporation is expected to make its own protective arrangements."

FORCE AUGMENTED

As a result, Cominco has placed employees armed with rifles and shotguns in special constables, on guard duty, patrolling its transmission lines, power plants and dams.

The company will not announce the strength of guard personnel as it does not want terrorists to know. However, its sizeable industry security force has been augmented by local men and 28 others from Kimberley.

DEAL ADEQUATELY

Cominco's position is that it does not want to be saddled with the guarding of any installations. It wants the government to deal adequately with the issue of freedom.

"In the meantime," said Mr. Perry, "we are forced to take costly precautions to try and keep our industry intact—and that means to keep men employed."

"When we are satisfied that the lives and livelihood of our employees are no longer endangered by terrorists, we shall be only too happy to withdraw our guards."

Fabulous Howe Hits 500-Goal Milestone

Howe's goal was scored as New York Rangers beat Detroit 3-2. See picture, story on Page 12.

Bid for China Trade

U.S. Firm Asks Right To Ship Wheat to Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy said Wednesday a Seattle trading firm has applied for the right to export U.S. surplus wheat to Communist China but there is no indication China has asked for the grain.

The request was submitted to the U.S. commerce department by two companies including the International Trading Corporation of Seattle. They asked licenses to export from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 worth of surplus American grain this year, sources said.

At Seattle, Robert N. Nelson, vice-president of International Trading, said the company had no comment to make at this time. Communist China is expected to be short 1,000,000 bushels of wheat this year, according to agriculture experts. Canada and Australia have shipped wheat to China in the past but now are reported scraping the bottom of their grain barrel.

EMBARGO ON TRADE

U.S. wheat carries a government subsidy of 50 to 70 cents a bushel and sells at $60 a ton on the world market. U.S. agriculture officials have been anxious to reduce the large surplus in this country, but there is an embargo against U.S. trade with Communist China.

House Battle Over School Draws Tears

Slanging Match 'Worst Ever'

By PETER BRUTON

A woman MLA was reduced to tears last night after a government member accused her of "playing politics with human misery."

Veteran MLA Arthur Turner (NDP-CCF-Vancouver East) described the bitter shouting match which followed as "one of the worst displays I have seen in 21 years in this House."

The flareup was sparked by Mrs. Camille Mather (NDP-CCF-Delta) who told Education Minister Leslie Peterson that conditions at Jericho School for the Deaf are a disgrace, and he should be ashamed.

This promptly brought the charge from Don Campbell (SC-Corcom) that Mrs. Mather was playing politics with human suffering. She quietly wept in her seat as the fight flared up between the opposition and government benches.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault charged that it was the most unchivalrous thing he had heard in the legislature.

He was shouted down by Premier Bennett and government MLAs.

Opposition leader Robert Strachan said it was just further proof that the present government is in a state of fear and trembling.

But Education Minister Peterson said that the charges had been made and because they were untrue had to be answered. It did not matter, he said, whether the member was a woman or not.

Chairman Alex Matthew (SC-Vancouver Centre) gavelled for order time and time again.

After Mrs. Mather had expressed criticism of the old buildings at Jericho school, the minister replied that although he agreed there should be some new building, a lot of the criticisms had been exaggerated.

Physical facilities weren't everything, he said, pointing to the old British schools of Eton and Harrow.

He wanted to assure parents of deaf children that everything possible was done to provide for their safety and comfort.

After Mr. Peterson had finished Mrs. Mather said she was dismayed and shocked that he had tried to put across the impression that the school was made up of graceful old buildings.

This led to Mr. Campbell's remark about playing politics. When Mr. Perrault hit out at the member he ran headlong into a furious Premier Bennett.

"Sit down," ordered Mr. Perrault. "I'll not take orders from the Liberal party," snapped the premier.

"Order, order," shouted everyone at once. "Please stop these interruptions, will you?" pleaded Mr. Matthew, who himself appeared close to tears.

"We don't deserve this type of treatment from the government," said Mr. Perrault. "Just playing politics, just playing politics," answered the premier.

ling. "You don't care about the children..."

"We do care," shouted Premier Bennett.

Mr. Peterson, once again jumping into the debate, said the government was well aware of the conditions at the school and was well aware of the need to improve them.

Opposition leader Robert Strachan said he very much regretted the attack on Mrs. Mather and said it showed up the government's weakness.

"The government's reaction to these statements exposes it as a group which lives in fear and trembling," he said.

"Now grin like a Cheshire cat," sneered Herbert Bruch (SC-Esquimalt). "You're trying to make politics out of human misery."

"Please... please... let's have some order," appealed Chairman Matthew.

Arthur Turner, senior MLA in the House, said the display was one of the worst he had seen in his 21 years in the legislature.

"It can't be excused from any point of view at all," he said.

Mrs. Mather, whose original criticisms had started the row, said she would like some assurance that steps would be taken to implement plans for aiding the deaf children and said there should be proper dining rooms, proper facilities and proper recreation areas.

Final word in the furious debate came from Agriculture Minister Frank Richter who said he hoped he wouldn't become emotional.

"I am closer to Jericho school than anyone," said the widely-respected minister. "My son has been there for the past three years."

"The facilities for children are very good," he said. "They are as good as my home... and I don't think my home is a hovel. There is a good dining room, good facilities and good dormitories."

"And I would just like to say that unless one is going to visit all the buildings he can't get a proper idea of what they're like. Sure there are some old ones but just because there are you can't condemn them all."

Nine-Storey Block Overrides Planners' Howls

A planning group's wholesale opposition to construction of a nine-storey high-rise apartment building on Douglas Street, opposite Thunderbird Park, was ignored last night by city zoning committee.

Council's advisory planning commission registered a strongly-worded opposition to a Calgary firm's plans to build a $1,000,000 building on land stretching between Douglas and Blanshard streets.

But on the motion of Ald. Michael Griffin, the zoning committee rejected the planning commission's report.

ZONED FOR SIX

"This area is zoned for six storeys now," he said.

"I would like to see us noted for co-operating with these fellows if they are going to dump their money in here, and bend a rule if necessary."

Ald. Griffin moved that the company be given permission to build a nine-storey apartment on the land, subject to adequate space being allowed between the building and the boundaries of the property.

SENT TO COUNCIL

The committee's recommendation will be sent to next week's meeting of city council.

Main objections by the planning commission were that the property is too small for the size of building proposed, but that a loophole in the city's high-rise bylaw made it temporarily legal for the building to be erected.

The planning commission warned that amendments to the high-rise bylaw will soon be passed by council, prohibiting similar buildings in similar locations.

WON'T BE SOLVED

Education Minister Leslie Peterson told the legislature last night that the problem of Victoria University's relationship to UBC would not be solved for some time.

NO AGREEMENT

"We had a joint committee studying the question but they could not reach agreement," said the minister. "We have now decided to wait until the new president takes over before we do anything further on the matter."

Dr. McDonald will take over the presidency from Dr. Norman McKenzie in a few months time.

College Link To UBC Unsettled

Decision as to whether Victoria University will become a separate institution free from the University of B.C. will be postponed until new UBC President John Barfoot McDonald takes over later this year.
